Proposal Called Impractical

Reds Belittle West Plan As Arms Parley Begins

Hope Fades For Saving 18 In Mine

No Signs Of Men At Entrance Of 3rd And Final Refuge

LOGAN, W.Va. (AP) — Hope ebbed today for rescue of 18 trapped coal miners as rescue teams probed the areas where they might have taken refuge and found no one.

One area was found empty Monday night and another this morning. There were no signs of the men at the entrance to the third and final refuge where the men, trapped since last Tuesday, may have gone.

"If they're up toward the slope, they're dead," said Paul Lingo, deputy state mines director.

Basic mine safety instructions call for trapped men to use chalk or other means to leave signs for rescuers.

The 18 were cut off about 8 a.m. last Tuesday when a small rock slide snapped an electric cable that ignited some timbers. The timbers in turn started a smoldering fire in the coal.

Communication was maintained with the miners for about four hours until that line, too, was broken, apparently burned through by the fire.

There are three honeycombed refuge areas, or "rooms," off the main passageway where the men might have barricaded themselves from the deadly fumes and smoke from the fire.

An alternative would have been to try to make it through the main passageway to an old mine entrance on the other side of the mountain. This way has been blocked for some time, and safety officials consider it the worst choice the men could have made.

The rescue team sent out to reach the third area—100 feet deeper in the mine—was told to check the barricade at its entrance for signs of the men but not to break any seal which might be protecting the trapped men from deadly fumes.

Hope was running high Monday when one crew finally reached the goal workers had been striving toward for more than six days —an underground room where the men might have taken refuge.

No one was there. It was empty except for the objects here and there.

One week ago today the 18 were trapped at work as the rocky roof of their tunnel tumbled down, igniting a stubborn fire which is still smoldering.

Rescuers struck out for a larger room 1,200 feet deeper into the mine. There was no official word on how long it might take to get there.

Urge Rival Soviet Idea Be Studied

U.S. Wants Action To Keep Arms Race From Outer Space

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union belittled a Western plan for disarmament today at the opening of a 10-nation conference called to find a way for ending the world arms race.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin described as impractical the proposal put forward by the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada.

He urged instead that the conference take up a rival Soviet proposal which in Western eyes does not contain adequate control provisions.

The Soviet delegate spoke just before U.S. Ambassador Frederick M. Eaton took the floor as the final speaker. Eaton urged the conference to take "immediate action to prevent an extension of the arms race into outer space."

This problem has arisen since the collapse of the last previous negotiations on disarmament in London in 1957.

Eaton stressed that arrangements to cut back forces and weapons must be subject to foolproof controls. He added that "the initial steps must not be overly ambitious."

Both Eaton and British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore stressed that the control problem would need to be carefully worked out. The American delegation leader said:

"It has been said that there must be no inspection without commensurate disarmament. Conversely, the security of the

Hearing Reset For 3rd

2 Officers Get 5 Days Without Pay

Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver Monday afternoon decreed five-day payless suspensions for two patrolmen against whom Civil Service charges were filed by Chief Americo Radeschi in connection with alleged after-hours drinking in a downtown club March 2.

As the aftermath of hearings he conducted yesterday morning, the director issued a formal finding giving the suspensions to Patrolmen Paul A. Burson Jr. and Richard Higgins.

Lt. Thomas A. Walker, also suspended as a result of the same alleged incident, is scheduled for a hearing before the director this afternoon at 1. Originally, his hearing was set for Friday afternoon, but the director announced the change in time this morning.

Lt. Walker and Officer Burson were accused by the chief of consuming alcoholic beverages in a private club after 1 a. m., the legal hour for stopping the sale of drinks under a club's D-4 permit. Officer Higgins was accused of being present while the alcoholic beverages were consumed, although there was no allegation that he took a drink.

The chief said yesterday that Burson and Higgins admitted the charges. Lt. Walker denied the charges, asserting that he did not consume any alcoholic beverage and did not observe such action on the part of anyone else.

The suspensions of all three officers became effective Saturday noon under written orders given them by the chief. Burson and Higgins appeared before the director yesterday morning for the formal hearings which Civil Service law requires in such cases.

The law allows the director to uphold, modify or set aside the chief's action. In affirming the chief's suspension order, the director decreed further that the men would be off duty for five days without pay.

As the men have been under suspension since noon Saturday, they officially will be restored to duty as of noon Thursday.

Cootie Club Named As Site Of Incident

The Military Order of the Cootie, 110 W. 4th St., was named today as the private club in which after-hours drinking allegedly took place March 2 — leading to the suspension of three police officers — and Chief Americo J. Radeschi said he is continuing his investigation to determine if charges will be filed against the permit-holder.

Chief Radeschi said he issued an order to all officers Monday to "keep a close check on all permit-holders for any violation of city ordinances or state laws."

House To Act On Rights Vote Referee Plan

2 Administration Proposals Beaten To Head Off Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights advocates drove today for House approval of a voting referee plan to resolve the long wrangle over legislation against racial discrimination at the polls.

There were even some "anti-carpetbag" sweeteners in it for the Southerners, who were still fighting it vigorously. Members outside the South generally were supporting the revised proposal.

The major test vote was expected late today, paving the way for a final House vote on the bill about Thursday.

The House GOP leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, told newsmen he thinks the House could write "a fine law" by incorporating the revised administration plan for referees into the stripped-down bill before it.

Halleck said the Senate might well agree to such a bill and end the marathon hassle raging on that side of the Capitol for exactly a month.

The Senate continued battling over various provisions of its own civil rights legislation despite a general expectation it eventually will accept whatever the House passes.

The House in swift parliamentary moves Monday discarded two administration civil rights proposals that might have led to prolonged debate. Both were ruled out of order on grounds they were not closely enough related to the main bill.

They would have provided for A commission to safeguard Negro and other minority employment rights on government contracts.

Financial aid to school districts changing from segregated school systems.

Operator Of Paddock Club Bar Fined $200

The license holder of a Route 30 tavern near Chester, cited Saturday night by West Virginia State Police on a liquor violation, was fined $200 and costs at a hearing Monday afternoon before Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland.

Charged with possession of alcoholic liquor on the licensed premises of the Club Paddock, William I. Foster Jr. of Weirton was handed the fine. Earlier, Ralph Pulver of the Kings Creek Tavern near Weirton was fined $300 on the same charge.

State police visited the Club Paddock bar at 8:15 Saturday night. Pulver was cited Saturday morning. The arrests were made on open violations after police spotted whisky in the establishments.

Flee With $53,200

Berlin Plea Given To Ike By Adenauer

President Asked To Resist Concessions On City At Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer made his personal plea to President Eisenhower today to resist concessions on Berlin at the summit meeting in Paris in May.

He arrived at the White House at 10:27 a.m. and was quickly ushered into the presidential offices.

The visiting West German chancellor had an extended date at the White House, lasting from midmorning through lunch, then appointments with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other State Department officials in the afternoon.

Adenauer was reported ready to advise Eisenhower to avoid the Berlin issue at the summit and place priority instead on progress toward disarmament.

Both Germany-Berlin and disarmament are on the agenda for Eisenhower's mid-May summit talks in Paris with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrusshchev and the British and French chiefs.

Adenauer was known to feel that no good can come from a temporary deal on West Berlin, the Red-encircled city from which Khrushchev wants all Allied troops withdrawn.

2 Post Office Probers Slain By 3 Thieves

CHICAGO (AP)—The FBI and police hunted today for three mail thieves who shot and killed two post office investigators in their car minutes after they trapped the robbers.

A half-dozen shots were fired into the bodies of the two inspectors by the three robbers, all Negroes, who fled after the shooting late Monday night on the southwest edge of the Loop.

The inspectors had seized the trio and several sacks of mail from their car and were about to drive them to a police station when the shooting broke out.

The inspectors apparently overlooked guns the robbers had concealed and they had no chance to return the fire. Both men were armed with .38 caliber service revolvers but neither gun was fired.

2 Drivers Deny Blame After Dresden Mishap

Although their auto entered the intersection at right angles, both drivers claimed a traffic light was in their favor after a collision on Dresden Ave. at E. 8th St. Monday at 2:55 p. m., police said.

The mishap involved a 1953 two-door sedan of William J. Fleming, 32, of LaCroft, moving north on Dresden, and a 1955 four-door sedan of Roosevelt Suggs, 50, of 262 Ridgeway Ave., traveling west on E. 8th.

Each man claimed the light was green as he entered the intersection, police said. The crash damaged the right front of Fleming's car and the right front of the Suggs auto.

Congressmen Inquiry Asked At Treadwell

Steelworkers Union Claims Struck Firm In Violation Of SBA

The United Steelworkers want district congressmen to investigate an alleged violation of the Federal Small Business Act by the Strike-bound Treadwell Construction Co. in Midland.

This was made known in telegrams sent to Rep. Elmer J. Holland and Frank Clark Monday.

Kay Kluz, acting director of USW District 20 in Beaver Valley, charged that the company last year subcontracted a one-million-dollar Army contract to another firm many miles distant from Midland.

He asks a probe of loopholes in the act, charging these "escape hatches" permit subcontracting of government orders originally intended to aid small business and employment in the areas in which the orders were placed.

Seventy production workers struck Treadwell 47 days ago in a wage dispute.

Frank G. Gramm, president and general manager of Treadwell, earlier served notice of a "fight to the finish" with the United Steelworkers over acceptance of the basic steel wage pattern.

"I'm fed up with having those exorbitant demands jammed down my throat," Gramm said.

The union members went back to work on a day-to-day extension for 2 months, until Jan. 26, when they struck again in an effort to get a new contract with the firm.

The union seeks the general provision of the 39-cent, 30-month basic steel agreement.

The company countered first with a 40-month contract with no changes in the old contract, then later with a 31-cent per hour pay cut plus elimination of Supplemental Unemployment Benefits.

Gramm said these drastic proposals were made because basic steel wage rates have made his firm completely non-competitive in the fabricating industry.

Kluz emphasized Treadwell technically is not in violation of the SBA Act since it is "silent" on the pattern of subcontracting.

"But the firm," Kluz emphasized, "is certainly in violation of the intent of the act. Here in Pennsylvania and especially in my district, we are concerned with de-

McLain Works Deadline Set

Contract Extension To End March 23

The United Brick and Clay Workers Union has set March 23 as the termination date of its contract extension with the McLain Works Refractories Division of the H. K. Porter Co., Inc.

The regular contract expired last summer and the men have been working under the extension which contains the clause that either party could terminate it with a 10-day notice.

The termination was presented the firm Saturday. Negotiations reportedly have been carried on and they will continue.

The primary disagreement reportedly is that the union wants the company to pay for the men's insurance when they are not working. In the past, the company has paid the insurance only while they are working.

The firm usually follows the lead of the steel industry closely in matters of wages and allied matters but also tries to follow in line with the refractories industry.

Other refractories industries now are negotiating at Pittsburgh and the insurance question is one of their disputes.

McLain plants include the Champion and Buckeye Works in Wellsville, Colonial Works at New Salisberry, Irondale Works, Dando Works at Merril and Clarion Works at St. Charles, Pa.

Not For Presidential Bid

Stevenson Seen As Likely Secretary Of State Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Democrats here consider Adlai E. Stevenson as a likely choice for secretary of state but not for the party's presidential nomination.

Stevenson, twice the party's nominee, has long disavowed any intention of making a third race for the office. But speculation was renewed Monday that he might make a soft-sell campaign and the Wall Street Journal said that "well-heeled Eastern Democratic liberals stand ready to finance this off-beat campaign."

Stevenson, now on an extended South American tour, replied jokingly in Mendoza, Argentina, to newsmen who asked about his presidential chances.

"I can't say anything about chances when I do not even know whether I'll be a candidate," he replied.

There is a growing belief among influential Democrats here — and they include some of Stevenson's best friends — that the former Illinois governor is fading out of the nomination picture.

Generally, they think Stevenson has waited too long to make any move to change his position that he isn't a candidate. He has said he would become one only as a result of a draft he doesn't believe will take place.

There is recognition, too, of the progress Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) now is making toward the elimination of any deadlock in the balloting at the Los Angeles convention in July.

Kennedy has more primary battles ahead, particularly in Wisconsin, West Virginia and Oregon, before any of his rivals will begin to show any signs of political panic. But there is a certain amount of uneasiness among them about Kennedy's inroads into delegations from states not holding primaries.

Stevenson's chances for the nomination seem likely to depend in part on what happens to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn). If Humphrey, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) can stop Kennedy in a deadlock, Humphrey might try to turn his strength to Stevenson if he can't make the grade himself.

If he doesn't get the first prize, Stevenson seems to be every other candidate's choice for secretary of state—if the Democrats win.

Notice. All members of the IBOP are urged to attend a meeting Thurs. at 7:30 p. m. at City Hall. The executive board's action on the new building will be discussed. Frank Duffy, referendum committee chairman.—Ad.

Dead Infant's Mother Held For Grand Jury

BEAVER FALLS — Mrs. Carrie Perry, 39, of Aliquippa is confined in jail after being ordered held for Grand Jury action in the death of her 2-month-old daughter.

Prosecutor In Beaver Opposes Appeal Delay

BEAVER — District Atty. Richard P. Steward's office is opposing a petition to the State Supreme Court, asking a delay in filing an appeal for a new trial for Arthur Schuck, convicted in the "mistaken identity" slaying of two men last year.

Atty. John V. Snee, Schuck's counsel, asked the delay, claiming the family is unable to obtain funds to have the briefs printed. The family is attempting to sell a house but bad weather has hampered the sale, the attorney said.

The opposing petition was filed by Attys. Joe Walko and Clarence Neish, assistant district attorneys.

Hearing Reset For 3rd

2 Officers Get 5 Days Without Pay

Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver Monday afternoon decreed five-day payless suspensions for two patrolmen against whom Civil Service charges were filed by Chief Americo Radeschi in connection with alleged after-hours drinking in a downtown club March 2.

As the aftermath of hearings he conducted yesterday morning, the director issued a formal finding giving the suspensions to Patrolmen Paul A. Burson Jr. and Richard Higgins.

Lt. Thomas A. Walker, also suspended as a result of the same alleged incident, is scheduled for a hearing before the director this afternoon at 1. Originally, his hearing was set for Friday afternoon, but the director announced the change in time this morning.

Lt. Walker and Officer Burson were accused by the chief of consuming alcoholic beverages in a private club after 1 a. m., the legal hour for stopping the sale of drinks under a club's D-4 permit. Officer Higgins was accused of being present while the alcoholic beverages were consumed, although there was no allegation that he took a drink.

The chief said yesterday that Burson and Higgins admitted the charges. Lt. Walker denied the charges, asserting that he did not consume any alcoholic beverage and did not observe such action on the part of anyone else.

The suspensions of all three officers became effective Saturday noon under written orders given them by the chief. Burson and Higgins appeared before the director yesterday morning for the formal hearings which Civil Service law requires in such cases.

As the men have been under suspension since noon Saturday, they officially will be restored to duty as of noon Thursday.

Cootie Club Named As Site Of Incident

The Military Order of the Cootie, 110 W. 4th St., was named today as the private club in which after-hours drinking allegedly took place March 2 — leading to the suspension of three police officers — and Chief Americo J. Radeschi said he is continuing his investigation to determine if charges will be filed against the permit-holder.

Chief Radeschi said he issued an order to all officers Monday to "keep a close check on all permit-holders for any violation of city ordinances or state laws."

Congressmen Inquiry Asked At Treadwell

Steelworkers Union Claims Struck Firm In Violation Of SBA

The United Steelworkers want district congressmen to investigate an alleged violation of the Federal Small Business Act by the Strike-bound Treadwell Construction Co. in Midland.

This was made known in telegrams sent to Rep. Elmer J. Holland and Frank Clark Monday.

Kay Kluz, acting director of USW District 20 in Beaver Valley, charged that the company last year subcontracted a one-million-dollar Army contract to another firm many miles distant from Midland.

He asks a probe of loopholes in the act, charging these "escape hatches" permit subcontracting of government orders originally intended to aid small business and employment in the areas in which the orders were placed.

Seventy production workers struck Treadwell 47 days ago in a wage dispute.

Frank G. Gramm, president and general manager of Treadwell, earlier served notice of a "fight to the finish" with the United Steelworkers over acceptance of the basic steel wage pattern.

"I'm fed up with having those exorbitant demands jammed down my throat," Gramm said.

The union members went back to work on a day-to-day extension for 2 months, until Jan. 26, when they struck again in an effort to get a new contract with the firm.

The union seeks the general provision of the 39-cent, 30-month basic steel agreement.

The company countered first with a 40-month contract with no changes in the old contract, then later with a 31-cent per hour pay cut plus elimination of Supplemental Unemployment Benefits.

Gramm said these drastic proposals were made because basic steel wage rates have made his firm completely non-competitive in the fabricating industry.

Kluz emphasized Treadwell technically is not in violation of the SBA Act since it is "silent" on the pattern of subcontracting.

"But the firm," Kluz emphasized, "is certainly in violation of the intent of the act. Here in Pennsylvania and especially in my district, we are concerned with de-

McLain Works Deadline Set

Contract Extension To End March 23

The United Brick and Clay Workers Union has set March 23 as the termination date of its contract extension with the McLain Works Refractories Division of the H. K. Porter Co., Inc.

The regular contract expired last summer and the men have been working under the extension which contains the clause that either party could terminate it with a 10-day notice.

The termination was presented the firm Saturday. Negotiations reportedly have been carried on and they will continue.

The primary disagreement reportedly is that the union wants the company to pay for the men's insurance when they are not working. In the past, the company has paid the insurance only while they are working.

The firm usually follows the lead of the steel industry closely in matters of wages and allied matters but also tries to follow in line with the refractories industry.

Other refractories industries now are negotiating at Pittsburgh and the insurance question is one of their disputes.

Not For Presidential Bid

Stevenson Seen As Likely Secretary Of State Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Democrats here consider Adlai E. Stevenson as a likely choice for secretary of state but not for the party's presidential nomination.

Stevenson, twice the party's nominee, has long disavowed any intention of making a third race for the office. But speculation was renewed Monday that he might make a soft-sell campaign and the Wall Street Journal said that "well-heeled Eastern Democratic liberals stand ready to finance this off-beat campaign."

Stevenson, now on an extended South American tour, replied jokingly in Mendoza, Argentina, to newsmen who asked about his presidential chances.

"I can't say anything about chances when I do not even know whether I'll be a candidate," he replied.

There is a growing belief among influential Democrats here — and they include some of Stevenson's best friends — that the former Illinois governor is fading out of the nomination picture.

Generally, they think Stevenson has waited too long to make any move to change his position that he isn't a candidate. He has said he would become one only as a result of a draft he doesn't believe will take place.

There is recognition, too, of the progress Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) now is making toward the elimination of any deadlock in the balloting at the Los Angeles convention in July.

Kennedy has more primary battles ahead, particularly in Wisconsin, West Virginia and Oregon, before any of his rivals will begin to show any signs of political panic. But there is a certain amount of uneasiness among them about Kennedy's inroads into delegations from states not holding primaries.

Stevenson's chances for the nomination seem likely to depend in part on what happens to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn). If Humphrey, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) can stop Kennedy in a deadlock, Humphrey might try to turn his strength to Stevenson if he can't make the grade himself.

If he doesn't get the first prize, Stevenson seems to be every other candidate's choice for secretary of state—if the Democrats win.

Life Of Drapes Can Be Prolonged

That time of year is just around the corner when it is time to get out the old mop bucket and scrub brush and start the house cleaning drudgery. This is the time, and quite often the only time, that the housewife strips the windows, sofas and chairs and sends her coverings to be cleaned. This is the time of year that the drycleaner receives most of his major complaints—breaks, splits, or holes in curtain and drapery fabrics. Most of these are not the fault of your drycleaners nor the manufacturers.

During the winter months drapery and curtain fabrics are subjected to severe deteriorating conditions. It has always been known that sunlight is very hard on fabrics, but there are several other conditions which are weakening to fibers. For instance, moisture from around the walls and windows will be absorbed by the materials. If you live in an industrial area, impurities containing sulphur dioxide or other corrosive materials settle on your draperies. Another more common deteriorating condition is combustion fumes from oil, coal or gas heat.

All of these conditions may combine to cause a weakness in your fabrics. It is not until the fabric has gone through the various cleaning processes that the slits and breaks are noticed.

What can the housewife do about this? First of all, choose your draperies well. Bright colors (except some yellow and orange dyes) rather than dull colors are more resistant to light. Heavy and more closely knitted yarns are higher in resistance. Linings, too, will protect your draperies. Avoid hanging near heaters.

After you have selected your draperies, frequent dry cleaning will prolong the life of the fabric. Watch for our next article about dry cleaning problems in two weeks.

By the way, we have a graduate of the National Institute of Drycleaning on hand at all times to answer your questions. Ask for Mr. Wetzel.

Church Group Plans Meeting

East Liverpool has been chosen as the site for the semi-annual circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses April 15-17, it was announced today by Emerson Booth, presiding minister of the local congregation.

The three-day event will be held at the Ceramic Theater, opening Friday evening, April 15, and extending through Sunday afternoon, April 17.

Nicholas C. Karamalis, circuit supervisor and representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York, is in charge of arrangements.

The assembly program will be centered on the theme, "Seek Peace and Pursue It." Commenting on this, Booth said: "Jehovah's Witnesses recognize from the Bible that lasting peace will come only by means of God's Kingdom, and hence they put their whole trust in it. Through gatherings such as this, we can 'seek peace and pursue it' even in these critical times by assembling together in peace and unity to learn of God's purposes."

Congregations from Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia will attend. All sessions will be open to the public and no collections will be taken, Booth said.

Commission Briefs Council

City Planning Start Urged

Although funds may not be available soon for a large-scale urban renewal program, East Liverpool should make some sort of a start—no matter how small—on plans to brighten and modernize the city's face.

Council, the administration and the Municipal Planning Commission reached that conclusion Monday night after a two-hour discussion in Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's office. The meeting was concerned principally with bringing the new Council up to date on the commission's studies of urban renewal programs made over the last two years.

PREPARATION of a master plan, one of the "musts" laid down by the federal government before it will put money into urban renewal, would cost from $20,000 to $40,000, based on informal bids made in 1959 by 3 organizations that specialize in the planning field, the group was told by Don Eckert, chairman of the commission.

The federal government also requires that the community must have a functioning planning commission, which East Liverpool has had since 1957, Eckert pointed out.

Under urban renewal, federal funds are available to help a community buy and clear a blighted area, move the dispossessed families to new housing and sell the cleared site for industrial use, Eckert explained. Many other projects are possible, including creation of new off-street parking areas.

He pointed out that the commission recognizes that raising funds for preparation of a master plan probably would be the biggest hurdle for East Liverpool. Drawing up the plan would require from 18 months to 3 years, based on the estimates of the concerns from Toledo, Indianapolis and Rochester, Pa., which submitted bids last year, Eckert added.

IT WAS THE Planning Commission's first meeting since June 1959, when it approved a recommendation to Council for adoption of building codes for East Liverpool, based on a master code drawn up by the National Board of Fire Underwriters but modified to meet local conditions. However, nothing further ever was heard from Council, Eckert pointed out.

Eckert, William B. Cooper and Paul Zehnder, clerk, represented the commission, along with Mayor Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver, who are members by virtue of their offices. Council was represented by President Charles N. Edwards, Donald E. Smith, Clifford J. Cooper, John F. Kelly and Clinton R. Seevers and Owen D. Kountz, clerk. Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper and Engineer George S. Bloomgren also attended.

Most of the meeting was taken up by Eckert's review of the commission's investigations of urban renewal programs and study of building codes and zoning regulations.

THE ORIGINAL intention was that preparation of the master plan would be financed out of income tax revenue, but the idea had to be dropped after the tax was repealed in the November 1958 general election, Eckert explained.

Then the commission concentrated on study of the building code, which covers regulations on the structures themselves as well as plumbing, wiring and heating systems, he explained. It was felt at the time that the building inspector's office would be 60 to 80 per cent self-sustaining through collection of fees, he explained.

"The code doesn't prevent the property-owner for doing his own work, as long as the finished job meets the regulations," Eckert said. He said many persons have the incorrect idea that the building code would outlaw "do-it-yourself" work.

"In today's city, planning is essential," William Cooper told Council. "Don't let it die."

JOSEPH COOPER said he feels East Liverpool is "far behind other Ohio cities" in planning for future growth.

William Cooper said Sharon recently received its fourth federal grant for an urban renewal project. Of $4 million that has been spent in Sharon, about $3 million is in federal funds, he added.

"Even a small beginning is something," he added. "A good start would be on zoning and building codes. My suggestion is to do the little things gradually as money is available."

Queried by Eckert about their feelings, each councilman said he feels finances will be the major problem in preparation of a master plan. However, most said they feel the city at least should make a start on planning for the future.

Referring to the master plan, Clifford Cooper said he feels it "is worthwhile if we can find the money." Edwards said it "boils down to a question of money." Smith said he feels Council will have to make a study of finances before it can arrive at a decision. Kelly said Council must determine "how much money we have and how far we can make it go." Seevers said "the big question is money," but added that he favors redevelopment work, particularly along the riverfront area.

"THERE HAS to be a starting point somewhere," Melvin commented. "We're going to have to have planning or all the towns around here will thrive and we'll end up a graveyard. I think something can be worked out."

Mayor Goodballet said he feels Council should be given time to think over the proposal, explaining that the cost of the master plan is only one of the big fund requests made of the members since they assumed office a little over two months ago.

"I think Council will extend every effort to find ways of co-operating with the commission," he added. He suggested another meeting be held soon to continue the discussion.

Bloomgren proposed putting a half-mill levy on the ballot in November to finance preparation of the master plan.

"THAT WOULD give the people an opportunity to say 'yes' or 'no'," he said.

As the session ended, Eckert said the commission's next meeting will be held in mid-April to discuss the National Fire Underwriters Code. Council's planning committee will be invited, as well as any other members who have time to attend, he said. Councilmen Seevers, Melvin and Kelly comprise the planning committee.

Three planning commission members were absent at last night's session — E. L. Wheatley, George Steele and Judge Louis Tobin.

Disarmament

world requires that there be no disarmament without commensurate inspection. We must patiently find our way through this difficulty.

The west's plan for ending the arms race calls for creation of an international disarmament organization with ultimate power to enforce disarmament. The rival Eastern plan is based on Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's call for total disarmament within four years. He first unveiled it in a speech to the U.N. General Assembly last Sept. 18.

The conference likely will set up several study groups and committees of experts which may deliberate for months or even years. U.S. negotiators were told to expect to stay in Geneva at least a year. But a Soviet commentator in Moscow called for speedy action.

For the first time in more than a decade of arms talks, East and West were meeting on an equal numerical basis. On the Western side were the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada. Representing the Communist bloc were the Soviet Union, Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria.

Previous disarmament talks were carried on mostly by the United States, Britian, France, Canada and the Soviet Union.

Robert W. Gray Begins Duties As Area Scout Head

Robert W. Gray, newly appointed executive of the Cherokee District of the Columbiana Boy Scout Council, has moved from Cameron, W. Va., to 232 Virginia Ave., Chester.

Bennett D. Taylor, council executive, said Gray has assumed the territory formerly supervised by Kenneth Mugridge, who took over the Shawnee District when Leonard McDaniel left for Ashtabula.

Gray is a graduate of Cameron High School and the 185th Schiff Training School and the National Camping School of the Boy Scouts and was a district executive at Mt. Vernon for 11 months. He has been active in Boy Scout work since 1948.

Previously he worked for the Ford Motor Co. in Cameron. He is a World War II veteran, having spent three years in the Air Force. He was also superintendent of a Sunday School in Cameron and was active in civic projects in and around Cameron.

He is married to the former Betty Dawson of Wheeling and has two children, Robert, 18, and Bonnie, 9.

Power In Lisbon Area Disrupted

Power service was off in the Lisbon area for about an hour and in the district south of Lisbon for five hours early this morning when an Ohio Edison Co. line east of the village broke after midnight. A north part of Lisbon also was affected during the repairs.

An electrician called to the scene found one wire of a three-phase line had snapped. The phase was cut out so service could be restored north of Lisbon by 1:30 a. m.

A line crew then worked until 5:15 a. m. to restore power in the district south and east of Lisbon.

A utility spokesman said the continued cold spell probably contributed to the snapping of the wire, possibly through weight of snow or ice or contraction of the metal in the near-zero temperature.

At Beaver Local High School and Public School and at a number of homes, heating controls were knocked out by the power failure, and early risers found rooms chilly.

Discount On Hancock Taxes To End In April

April is the final month of the 1959 fiscal year for Hancock County property owners to receive a discount of their second-half personal property and real estate taxes.

The net rate prevails in May while interest at the rate of 9 per cent will be charged after June 1. The second-half installment becomes due April 1. The first installment was paid in October.

A total of 27,000 tax statments were mailed last fall by the tax department of the sheriff's office in New Cumberland. The office will collect $2,774,589.24 — an all-time record. The amount includes $657,530.14 in personal property taxes and $2,170,059.10 in real estate taxes.

Weirton Steel Co.'s personal property and real estate bill amounts to $1,870,624.42, or 67 per cent of the county total.

Paintings Of Early Man Shown For Explorers Club

Slides of paintings depicting the migration of early man from Asia to North America were screened by H. A. Dawson, president, at a meeting of the Aboriginal Explorers Club Monday night with Ray A. Simoni of Smiths Ferry.

Dawson said the men are believed to have traveled across the Bering Straight where a land bridge is thought to have existed.

A report was given on excavation of a burial site near Vanport by the Beaver Valley Chapter of the Pennsylvania Archeological Society. Mitchel Zack, secretary of the Panhandle Chapter of the West Virginia Society, James Woodrow and Harry R. Cline visited the site. Eight burials have been uncovered within four 10-foot squares. Cline and Woodrow uncovered and ancient fire pit that contained pottery shards, pieces of flint and crude projectile points.

Cline also reported finding a rock shelter in West Virginia a week ago. He said excavation will start as soon as possible.

A report was made on the club's visitation with R. Max Gard of Lisbon, County historian who also collects Indian relics.

John Rodway, a guest, demonstrated the use of a metal detector and showed how it could be used in locating camp sites.

Richard S. Thompson, secretary, reported several hollows and streams leading into Beaver Creek were explored the past weekend. Club members are searching for Indian camps and villages, and rock shelters.

It was reported the club's first news letter has been published and distributed.

Wellsville Man Due For Parole On May 11

Dale G. Morrell, 28, of Wellsville will be paroled from the Manfield Reformatory on May 11, after serving slightly more than a year on a manslaughter conviction stemming from a traffic death.

Morrell was received April 28, 1959, for the death of John W. Webber, 21, a passenger in his car when it hit a railroad warning device in Wellsville on Oct. 25, 1958.

Authorities said Morrell told them he was attempting to pass another car when his car went out of control.

The Pardon and Parole Commission granted 166 paroles, most effective in mid-April, continued 106 cases, and revoked 17 paroles.

Commission Briefs Council

City Planning Start Urged

Although funds may not be available soon for a large-scale urban renewal program, East Liverpool should make some sort of a start—no matter how small—on plans to brighten and modernize the city's face.

Council, the administration and the Municipal Planning Commission reached that conclusion Monday night after a two-hour discussion in Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's office. The meeting was concerned principally with bringing the new Council up to date on the commission's studies of urban renewal programs made over the last two years.

PREPARATION of a master plan, one of the "musts" laid down by the federal government before it will put money into urban renewal, would cost from $20,000 to $40,000, based on informal bids made in 1959 by 3 organizations that specialize in the planning field, the group was told by Don Eckert, chairman of the commission.

The federal government also requires that the community must have a functioning planning commission, which East Liverpool has had since 1957, Eckert pointed out.

Under urban renewal, federal funds are available to help a community buy and clear a blighted area, move the dispossessed families to new housing and sell the cleared site for industrial use, Eckert explained. Many other projects are possible, including creation of new off-street parking areas.

He pointed out that the commission recognizes that raising funds for preparation of a master plan probably would be the biggest hurdle for East Liverpool. Drawing up the plan would require from 18 months to 3 years, based on the estimates of the concerns from Toledo, Indianapolis and Rochester, Pa., which submitted bids last year, Eckert added.

IT WAS THE Planning Commission's first meeting since June 1959, when it approved a recommendation to Council for adoption of building codes for East Liverpool, based on a master code drawn up by the National Board of Fire Underwriters but modified to meet local conditions. However, nothing further ever was heard from Council, Eckert pointed out.

Eckert, William B. Cooper and Paul Zehnder, clerk, represented the commission, along with Mayor Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver, who are members by virtue of their offices. Council was represented by President Charles N. Edwards, Donald E. Smith, Clifford J. Cooper, John F. Kelly and Clinton R. Seevers and Owen D. Kountz, clerk. Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper and Engineer George S. Bloomgren also attended.

Most of the meeting was taken up by Eckert's review of the commission's investigations of urban renewal programs and study of building codes and zoning regulations.

THE ORIGINAL intention was that preparation of the master plan would be financed out of income tax revenue, but the idea had to be dropped after the tax was repealed in the November 1958 general election, Eckert explained.

Then the commission concentrated on study of the building code, which covers regulations on the structures themselves as well as plumbing, wiring and heating systems, he explained. It was felt at the time that the building inspector's office would be 60 to 80 per cent self-sustaining through collection of fees, he explained.

"The code doesn't prevent the property-owner for doing his own work, as long as the finished job meets the regulations," Eckert said. He said many persons have the incorrect idea that the building code would outlaw "do-it-yourself" work.

"In today's city, planning is essential," William Cooper told Council. "Don't let it die."

JOSEPH COOPER said he feels East Liverpool is "far behind other Ohio cities" in planning for future growth.

William Cooper said Sharon recently received its fourth federal grant for an urban renewal project. Of $4 million that has been spent in Sharon, about $3 million is in federal funds, he added.

"Even a small beginning is something," he added. "A good start would be on zoning and building codes. My suggestion is to do the little things gradually as money is available."

Queried by Eckert about their feelings, each councilman said he feels finances will be the major problem in preparation of a master plan. However, most said they feel the city at least should make a start on planning for the future.

Referring to the master plan, Clifford Cooper said he feels it "is worthwhile if we can find the money." Edwards said it "boils down to a question of money." Smith said he feels Council will have to make a study of finances before it can arrive at a decision. Kelly said Council must determine "how much money we have and how far we can make it go." Seevers said "the big question is money," but added that he favors redevelopment work, particularly along the riverfront area.

"THERE HAS to be a starting point somewhere," Melvin commented. "We're going to have to have planning or all the towns around here will thrive and we'll end up a graveyard. I think something can be worked out."

Mayor Goodballet said he feels Council should be given time to think over the proposal, explaining that the cost of the master plan is only one of the big fund requests made of the members since they assumed office a little over two months ago.

"I think Council will extend every effort to find ways of co-operating with the commission," he added. He suggested another meeting be held soon to continue the discussion.

Bloomgren proposed putting a half-mill levy on the ballot in November to finance preparation of the master plan.

"THAT WOULD give the people an opportunity to say 'yes' or 'no'," he said.

As the session ended, Eckert said the commission's next meeting will be held in mid-April to discuss the National Fire Underwriters Code. Council's planning committee will be invited, as well as any other members who have time to attend, he said. Councilmen Seevers, Melvin and Kelly comprise the planning committee.

Three planning commission members were absent at last night's session — E. L. Wheatley, George Steele and Judge Louis Tobin.

Disarmament

world requires that there be no disarmament without commensurate inspection. We must patiently find our way through this difficulty.

Too Many Incidents Could Spoil Broth

Regardless of their guilt or innocence, the fact that three police officers have left themselves open to question in an after-hours club incident is to be lamented.

Those who wear the uniform of an officer are subject to the whims and frailties of human nature — even as you and I. But when they don the uniform their responsibilities to the department and to the community increase to the point where poor judgment leaves them open to immediate criticism.

When those who have sworn to uphold the law tend to stray — regardless of the degree — respect goes out the window. And without respect a law enforcement officer loses a major part of his effectiveness.

It would be regrettable should the March 2 incident become a wedge that would bring a gradual deterioration in the operation of the police deparment, especially since its standards have been on the upturn since the critical days of a few years ago.

Any further incidents should call for the strictest measures should guilt be established at proper hearings. It is too easy to slip backwards. There comes a time when the brakes must be applied by those in the driver's seat.

It is reassuring that the club involved in the case is not being forgotten. If proven guilty of a liquor license violation, it should suffer the legal consequences.

Undesirable situations involving police are unfortunate in any community, but particularly so here in light of the recent scandal which still is having its day in the courts. Any false step—no matter how trivial it may seem—is an extra heavy kick in the seat of the municipal trousers.

Further Study Can Do No Harm

Since the April day in 1954 when announcement was made of plans to construct an atomic energy reactor at Shippingport, many Ohio Valley residents have been apprehensive about the possibility of radiation from the power plant.

Uncertainty over the long-range aspects of radioactivity, the silent and invisible nature of the threat and some confused ideas about the reaction process have contributed to the uneasiness.

All this despite the fact that the Atomic Energy Commission, state and federal public health officials, the companies involved and knowledgeable experts throughout the nation have examined the Shippingport plant and its operations and pronounced the methods safe.

All standards for safeguard have been doubled from normal requirements. Protection has been especially emphasized because of the pioneer nature of the project.

Yet, as with anything new and not completely understood, the plant has remained a possible hazard. As a result, studies and measurements of the operation and its effect on the river have been continued.

Next Friday's meeting at Wheeling seems entirely justified and could go far toward clarifying the situation unless an unexpected number of contradictory ideas should emerge during the discussion.

Government atomic authorities and administrative officials from many river communities will be present.

District residents on the whole welcomed the Shippingport plant, which is clearly pointing the way to a newer and greater America. But they also welcome all efforts to maintain the highest protective standards in connection with the new era of the atom.

This is a case in which partisan politics, opportunism or imagination should have no part. Only the facts are desired. Many should result from the Wheeling meeting.

Trials Of The Traveling Diplomat

People who think "diplomacy by travel" is a lark for the big-time politicians who engage in it have had a rare opportunity to see how wrong they are.

Because globe-trotting Nikita Khrushchev fell victim to so mundane a conqueror as the flu bug, high-ranking and low-ranking officials of both Soviet Russia and France have been thrown into a maelstrom of activity trying to make sense out of the chaos left in the wake of postponement of a two-week visit.

In Paris, bunting already in place for the Red boss' arrival had to be hastily removed and piles of steel barricades had to be toted away. They will all have to be trucked out again eight days hence.

A thousand anti-Communist refugees will either have to spend an extra eight days on the isle of Corsica—where they were sent for safekeeping—or be sent home and back again later at tremendous expense.

Anti-Reds who were allowed to remain in Paris will have to go to work all over again scribbling "Budapest" over public buildings with chalk.

Official schedules which had been arranged around the activities of the foreign dignitary have been left in a shambles.

In the French hinterlands, public and civic leaders will have to play all over again the events slated for the nine days Premier Khrushchev intended to spend outside the capital city. For some of them, however, there will be nothing to do since rescheduling reduced the length of the visit by two days.

In Moscow, an equal amount of paper work must be done to mend the damaged schedule. Decisions must be made on which two days of touring must be dropped. And Soviet security agents must be dispatched again to France to scour Mr. K's route for possible booby-traps.

The only fortunate aspect of the whole episode is that the visit could be rescheduled at all. There was barely time to cram it in before French President De Gaulle takes off for a state visit to England and then to the United States.

Little wonder that personal weariness or miserable weather or risky engine trouble or other adverse developments are not enough to stay the voyage of a President of the United States or a Premier of Soviet Russia.

It takes something as formidable as a virus to pull the chain on the top-level whistle stop tour.

A Proper Share For Industry

Washington's plan to request industry's help in footing the bills for display of American products at international trade fairs is a wise one. It gives capitalism a bigger share in carrying the American economic message overseas.

Until now, United States participation in the fairs has been primarily for "show"—propaganda is an accurate term. It has left us open to the same charges we are fond of hurling at the Russians: Our exhibits are planned by government officials for impression purposes only and the products displayed are not available for purchase.

Now, as a way to correct the deficit in our export-import balance, the government is urging American businessmen to get in there and compete for sales. They will be allowed to pay for space, set up exhibits at their own expense and then capitalize on their investment by accepting orders.

The Eisenhower administration has championed the cause of government and business cooperation on the domestic scene. There is no reason why this philosophy should not be extended beyond our borders.

The new program should help promote the idea overseas that an economy does not have to be government-planned and government-controlled to be successful.

The Senate committee's "Play of the Week" had some element of "Adventures in Florida Paradise," "I Love Cruising," and "Time for Fun."

"Vacationola," "Playola," and "Be-My-Guestola" were job-losing issues with the head man of the federal regulatory agency seeing nothing wrong in accepting air, sea and dockside hospitalities from radio and TV tycoon upon whose activities he might one day be called to pass. If this federal official has been right it would seem okay for baseball umps to vacation with pitchers.

Chairman Doerfer told the Senate probers he saw nothing wrong in hobnobbing with a big operator of radio and TV stations, because social life has nothing to do with official life.

This could be true but would David have looked good as a house guest of Goliath? Or Sir Galahad out fishing with possible targets in his crusades? 'Truth-Seeking' Business Grows

By Victor Riesel

"Have Polygraph — Will Travel." I've discovered in my own travels that that's what thousands of management executives and labor leaders are being told by advance men for a bouncy new industry—the lie detection business.

Victor Riesel

There's always been a polygraph —an electronic truth seeking gadget. But suddenly it has burst into the labor field.

Hundreds of times in the past month, this column's survey shows, the truth machine has been used to determine whether employes have stolen secret documents or money, whether they have dipped into inventories, lied about their output or slugged each other and should be fired outright.

So flourishing a business is it now that there are polygraph institutes and lie detecting consultants moving right into the labor relations field.

An increasing number of union leaders, I learned in Chicago, are asking for lie detector tests to prove the innocence of their people and thus avoid their discharge.

IN CHICAGO — in fact over a 10,000 mile circuit — I found that there was only one union which was bitterly battling the use of the lie detectors in any case. Guess who? Right. The Teamsters.

In that city it is the huge Local 705, biggest Teamster outfit in the land. It's the Truck Drivers, Oil Drivers, Filling Station and Platform Workers Local, one of Jimmy Hoffa's power units. They've actually hit the streets with leaflets telling their people not to take any such test if accused of anything by a company.

This is not the policy of other unions. The president of the lie detector organization, Leonard Harrelson, tells me that scores of Chicago's unions cooperate with him.

For example, he pointed to one case where the union found that two of its business agents were battling. The windshield of one official's car was smashed. His tires were slashed. He accused the other of the damage.

The lie detector people were called in. Tests proved that the other business agent was innocent. Investigation later showed that an outsider did the job.

In another case, the polygraph people were summoned to test a worker who charged that the company had fired him at the request of the union. He asserted that the union officials had objected to his working too fast.

The truth machine revealed that he lied. He had been discharged for good cause, completely unrelated to his work speed.

In New York the Transit Authority used the lie detector on a work train crew who were involved in a subway accident.

SO IT GOES right across the land. Just recently one of labor's most militant leaders, David Herman, head of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Local 255 in Miami Beach, called for a truth machine.

A lush hotel had fired a 30-year-old waiter. It was charged that he jacked up a dining check by $5 and kept the difference between the new total and the actual bill. He was fired.

Herman contacted the management and suggested the lie detector test. All agreed. A specialist named Lincoln Zonn, trained in Chicago, was retained. The waiter was found innocent and rehired.

Similar tests have been run on members of the United Auto Workers and United Steel Workers in big plants. Some were found guilty, some innocent.

Polygraph experts say they have scientific backing for their claim that analyses run 95 per cent accurate. In 4 per cent there is no answer because the controversial employe is not emotionally suited for such tests. There is only 1 per cent actual error.

The importance of the lie detector equipment in settling inner plant labor grievances has increased tremendously in the past months.

This resulted from a decision of National Labor Relations Board solicitor Stewart Rothman. He said that the use of the polygraph to test employes — union or otherwise — is legal.

Wherever you go now you run into the polygraph man electronically searching for the truth which may prevent thousands of costly labor-management hassles.

Parkinson's Law

By Truman Twill

A screwball comes along every so often with a slant so intriguing you want to kidnap him for an interview. C. Northcote Parkinson, a professor of history at the University of Malaya, is high on everybody's current list of zanies.

Parkinson's claim to fame is his "law." This has been famous for several years—and infamous in some circles.

Work expands to fill the time available for its completion; therefore, the size of the staff has no relation to the amount of work to be accomplished. This is Parkinson's Law. It has drawn blood in every bureaucratic hideaway on earth. Jobholders may not know about Parkinson, but thousands of them know a nutty professor has put his finger on the trade secret of jobholding.

Parkinson has other devastating ideas. One's a business disease that he calls injelititus which is like Gresham's law that bad money drives out good money, except injelititus applies to employes.

Bad employes drive out good employes. A boss who knows he is not topnotch surrounds himself with associates stupider than he is, to make him look bright. The associates see to it that they are surrounded by people dumber than they are until at the lowest levels, declares Parkinson, personnel is subhuman. The organization is rotten from top to bottom.

This is what Parkinson is up to and why he is unlikely to draw fat retainers from business. Yes, business. The impression that Parkinson's law applies only to public jobholders is incorrect. It applies to all jobholders. They all know how to stretch the work.

There is a companion law no one has heard of because this is the first time it has been put into words. It was formulated by a member of the Twill family who must remain nameless.

Public business adopts the inefficient practices of private business; therefore, private business shudders at the image of itself in the public mirror. This is Twill's law.

Business will not like Twill's law, either. Nevertheless, when business screams at government inefficiency and muddle-headedness it is showing shock at its own reflection. Government imitates. It does not innovate.

When businessmen demand periodically that they be allowed to make government as efficient as business the taxpaying public should tremble. There are efficient business, just as there are efficient public employes. But businessmen most likely to scud off to Washington to show how it ought to be run are not necessarily efficient. Even if they are, government is not the same as a widgit works, as many bushy-tailed businessmen learned when they went there.

Next to politicians who pester jobholders, the biggest pests in Washington are businessmen who want to make government accommodate them. Whenever some jobholding patsy gets canned for stepping out of line, chances are he was enticed by a citizen corrupting his government with the tricks that made him a ripping success back at the widgit works.

Parkinson's Law, or your own law if you have one ready, cannot be restricted to any one kind of work. All work expands to fill the time available for its completion. Every time this country trims payrolls efficiency improves. Under Twill's law that public business adopts the practices of private business, which accounts for government inefficiency, the best thing that can happen is to cut off a percentage of personnel every so often. The survivors more than take up the slack. It never fails.

Distorted Reports?

By David Lawrence

Training Manual Issues Seen Twisted

Are the American people getting a fair report on what the Air Force Reserve training manual said about the "people's right to know" and about Communistic activity in the churches? Many members of Congress think not.

David Lawrence

The best way perhaps to give the viewpoint of those members of Congress is to present some of the testimony, originally heard in executive session, when the Air Force secretary, Dudley C. Sharp, testified. This now has been released for publication.

First of all, it's necessary to read in full text the paragraphs in the Air Force manual dealing with the "right to know" controversy. Here they are:

"When a newspaper prints some so-called secret data, it merely means the government no longer considers that particular data secret—it does not mean we have no secrets left. Or it could mean that clever newsmen took pieces of unclassified information which they were authorized to have, put them together and came up with the right answer.

"However, because such accounts may have given the correct information does not mean that the information is no longer classified. Newspapers are not official—and until the government declassifies security information, it remains classified.

"Another rather foolish remark often heard is that Americans have a right to know what's going on. Most people realize the foolhardiness of such a suggestion. If a football team should start telling the other side the plays it planned to use, their opponents would sweep them off the field. It's the same in war—hot or cold; if we tell our secrets, we are likely to be beaten, and beaten badly."

IMMEDIATELY after this quotation is printed in the testimony, there occurs this exchange between Richard Arends, staff director of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the secretary of the Air Force, Mr. Sharp:

"Mr. Arends: Mr. Secretary, the whole import of that language is that the military is entitled to protect secrets, is it not "Secretary? Sharp: Yes, I would think so; yes, sir.

"Mr. Arends: It is not intended, as you read the two paragraphs in entire context, to convey the impression that the American people as such are not entitled to know in general what is going on; isn't that correct?

"Secretary Sharp: That certainly is correct; yes, sir."

At another point in the same executive session, Mr. Arends took up the section dealing with Communist infiltration in the churches and read again from the manual which declared that the Communist party in this country had instructed many of its members to infiltrate the churches.

THE MANUAL had made this comment!

"Again, to stop Communists we must be careful not to attack the majority of faithful ministers and church-goers. We must merely search out those who back Moscow right down the line."

Mr. Arends said to the committee:

"In view of the secretary's repudiation of the information conveyed respecting The National Council of Churches of Christ in America, the chairman, — Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.)—issued a statement to the effect that the leadership of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America had hundreds or at least over one hundred, affiliations with Communist fronts and causes. Since then we have made careful, but yet incomplete checks and it is a complete understatement.

"Thus far of the leadership of the National Council of Churches of Christ in America, we have found over 100 persons in leadership capacity with either Communist front records or records of service to Communist causes.

"The aggregate affiliations of the leadership, instead of being in the hundreds as the chairman first indicated, is now, according to our latest count, into the thousands, and we have yet to complete our check, which would certainly suggest, on the basis of the authoritative sources of this committee, that the statement that there is infiltration of fellow travelers in churches and educational institutions is a complete understatement."

Rep. Donald L. Jackson, (R-Calif.), a member of the same committee, charged that some newspapers last Friday twisted the words of Cardinal Spellman of New York into a "defense" of those who had criticized the Air Force manual.

THE CARDINAL in his statement referring to Protestant chaplains with whom he was associated in wartime, said he would "deplore it if any unfair deductions from general accusations were interpreted to reflect in any way on their loyalty to our country or on the loyalty of the general body of ministers whom they represent."

Rep. Jackson called Cardinal Spellman's attention to the misinterpretation of his statement as a defense of those who had criticized the Air Force manual. He received from Cardinal Spellman a telegram in reply which said:

"I cannot understand how some of the press distorted my statement. I respect the fact that Congressman Walter, you and other members of your committee have rendered outstanding service in exposing Communist activities."

It is indeed on the whole an unfortunate controversy and maybe the clergymen who aired it publicly in the first place would have been better advised if they had written privately to the Defense Department and called attention to ambiguous paragraphs or to those which might better have been omitted.

Debate Goes On And On

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The civil rights fight in Congress goes on and on. Sometimes it seems as confused as ever. If there is to be a quick and quiet end to it, the House apparently will have to provide it.

For a month, through Southern filibuster and miscellaneous debate, the Senate talked on civil rights like a man addressing himself in the mirror. He wasn't changing his mind but at least he had a respectful audience.

Then over the weekend Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, said he thought the Senate might just wait till the House passed a civil rights bill and then approve that. A couple of weeks ago, when others had a similar idea, Dirksen had advocated going ahead with the Senate's own bill.

The House, which started last week on its own civil rights bill, has worked much faster. Unlike the Senate, where debate is unlimited, the House agreed to cut speechmaking short. It expects to pass the bill this week and send it to the Senate.

But Monday Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, leader of the majority Democrats, called for the Senate to get busy disposing of more than 100 proposed amendments to its own bill.

For the Senate to discuss and act on 100 or more amendments—particularly since each senator can try to tack amendments on an amendment—should be quite a spectacle.

A handful of Southerners—18—kept the Senate in knots with their around-the-clock filibuster against the civil rights.

Finally, last week, some impatient Northern liberals tried to shut off the Southerners. But they couldn't find enough other senators to go along with them and make it stick. Instead, the Senate resumed regular sessions without the around-the-clock talking.

Then Sen. Frank J. Lausche, Ohio Democrat, proposed amending the administration's bill. One section called for making it a crime to obstruct a federal court order in school integration cases.

Lausche suggested it be made a crime to obstruct court orders in any kind of case, including labor disputes. The Southerners, who wouldn't buy what the bill proposed in school cases, were willing to go along on Lausche's broader idea.

Northern liberals, who may have thought this was the only way to avoid frustration of court orders in school cases, presented the extraordinary spectacle of going along with the Southerners.

Then labor unions screamed, because the change would make it a crime to interfere with antistrike injunctions as well as antisegregation and other orders. The Senate ended up knocking out the whole section, including the amendment it had just adopted.

This was about as dizzy a performance as the Senate has put on in a long time. But it will probably look intellectual compared with what lies ahead if the Senate ever gets tangled in all those 100 other amendments.

Wooden water pipes about 120 years old, and still serviceable, were recently dug up in downtown Chicago. The pipes were made from white pine logs 11 inches in diameter with a four-inch diameter hole.

Too Many Incidents Could Spoil Broth

Regardless of their guilt or innocence, the fact that three police officers have left themselves open to question in an after-hours club incident is to be lamented.

Those who wear the uniform of an officer are subject to the whims and frailties of human nature — even as you and I. But when they don the uniform their responsibilities to the department and to the community increase to the point where poor judgment leaves them open to immediate criticism.

When those who have sworn to uphold the law tend to stray — regardless of the degree — respect goes out the window. And without respect a law enforcement officer loses a major part of his effectiveness.

It would be regrettable should the March 2 incident become a wedge that would bring a gradual deterioration in the operation of the police deparment, especially since its standards have been on the upturn since the critical days of a few years ago.

Any further incidents should call for the strictest measures should guilt be established at proper hearings. It is too easy to slip backwards. There comes a time when the brakes must be applied by those in the driver's seat.

It is reassuring that the club involved in the case is not being forgotten. If proven guilty of a liquor license violation, it should suffer the legal consequences.

Undesirable situations involving police are unfortunate in any community, but particularly so here in light of the recent scandal which still is having its day in the courts. Any false step—no matter how trivial it may seem—is an extra heavy kick in the seat of the municipal trousers.

Further Study Can Do No Harm

Since the April day in 1954 when announcement was made of plans to construct an atomic energy reactor at Shippingport, many Ohio Valley residents have been apprehensive about the possibility of radiation from the power plant.

Uncertainty over the long-range aspects of radioactivity, the silent and invisible nature of the threat and some confused ideas about the reaction process have contributed to the uneasiness.

All this despite the fact that the Atomic Energy Commission, state and federal public health officials, the companies involved and knowledgeable experts throughout the nation have examined the Shippingport plant and its operations and pronounced the methods safe.

All standards for safeguard have been doubled from normal requirements. Protection has been especially emphasized because of the pioneer nature of the project.

Yet, as with anything new and not completely understood, the plant has remained a possible hazard. As a result, studies and measurements of the operation and its effect on the river have been continued.

Next Friday's meeting at Wheeling seems entirely justified and could go far toward clarifying the situation unless an unexpected number of contradictory ideas should emerge during the discussion.

Government atomic authorities and administrative officials from many river communities will be present.

District residents on the whole welcomed the Shippingport plant, which is clearly pointing the way to a newer and greater America. But they also welcome all efforts to maintain the highest protective standards in connection with the new era of the atom.

This is a case in which partisan politics, opportunism or imagination should have no part. Only the facts are desired. Many should result from the Wheeling meeting.

Trials Of The Traveling Diplomat

People who think "diplomacy by travel" is a lark for the big-time politicians who engage in it have had a rare opportunity to see how wrong they are.

Because globe-trotting Nikita Khrushchev fell victim to so mundane a conqueror as the flu bug, high-ranking and low-ranking officials of both Soviet Russia and France have been thrown into a maelstrom of activity trying to make sense out of the chaos left in the wake of postponement of a two-week visit.

In Paris, bunting already in place for the Red boss' arrival had to be hastily removed and piles of steel barricades had to be toted away. They will all have to be trucked out again eight days hence.

A thousand anti-Communist refugees will either have to spend an extra eight days on the isle of Corsica—where they were sent for safekeeping—or be sent home and back again later at tremendous expense.

Anti-Reds who were allowed to remain in Paris will have to go to work all over again scribbling "Budapest" over public buildings with chalk.

Official schedules which had been arranged around the activities of the foreign dignitary have been left in a shambles.

In the French hinterlands, public and civic leaders will have to play all over again the events slated for the nine days Premier Khrushchev intended to spend outside the capital city. For some of them, however, there will be nothing to do since rescheduling reduced the length of the visit by two days.

In Moscow, an equal amount of paper work must be done to mend the damaged schedule. Decisions must be made on which two days of touring must be dropped. And Soviet security agents must be dispatched again to France to scour Mr. K's route for possible booby-traps.

The only fortunate aspect of the whole episode is that the visit could be rescheduled at all. There was barely time to cram it in before French President De Gaulle takes off for a state visit to England and then to the United States.

Little wonder that personal weariness or miserable weather or risky engine trouble or other adverse developments are not enough to stay the voyage of a President of the United States or a Premier of Soviet Russia.

Parkinson has other devastating ideas. One's a business disease that he calls injelititus which is like Gresham's law that bad money drives out good money, except injelititus applies to employes.

Bad employes drive out good employes. A boss who knows he is not topnotch surrounds himself with associates stupider than he is, to make him look bright. The associates see to it that they are surrounded by people dumber than they are until at the lowest levels, declares Parkinson, personnel is subhuman. The organization is rotten from top to bottom.

This is what Parkinson is up to and why he is unlikely to draw fat retainers from business. Yes, business. The impression that Parkinson's law applies only to public jobholders is incorrect. It applies to all jobholders. They all know how to stretch the work.

There is a companion law no one has heard of because this is the first time it has been put into words. It was formulated by a member of the Twill family who must remain nameless.

Public business adopts the inefficient practices of private business; therefore, private business shudders at the image of itself in the public mirror. This is Twill's law.

Business will not like Twill's law, either. Nevertheless, when business screams at government inefficiency and muddle-headedness it is showing shock at its own reflection. Government imitates. It does not innovate.

When businessmen demand periodically that they be allowed to make government as efficient as business the taxpaying public should tremble. There are efficient business, just as there are efficient public employes. But businessmen most likely to scud off to Washington to show how it ought to be run are not necessarily efficient. Even if they are, government is not the same as a widgit works, as many bushy-tailed businessmen learned when they went there.

Next to politicians who pester jobholders, the biggest pests in Washington are businessmen who want to make government accommodate them. Whenever some jobholding patsy gets canned for stepping out of line, chances are he was enticed by a citizen corrupting his government with the tricks that made him a ripping success back at the widgit works.

Parkinson's Law, or your own law if you have one ready, cannot be restricted to any one kind of work. All work expands to fill the time available for its completion. Every time this country trims payrolls efficiency improves. Under Twill's law that public business adopts the practices of private business, which accounts for government inefficiency, the best thing that can happen is to cut off a percentage of personnel every so often. The survivors more than take up the slack. It never fails.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Prof. B. G. Ludwig, principal of East Liverpool High School, addressed the Newell Parent - Teacher Association.

Only 529 automobile licenses were issued in Columbiana County during February, compared with 15,912 in January.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — The 1940 YMCA-Boy Scout joint fund campaign closed with pledges totaling $15,360.

Four inches of snow fell here during a storm that centered in northern and eastern Ohio.

The Rev. Milton M. Boos of Huntsville, Ohio, was installed as new pastor of the Calcutta United Presbyterian Church.

TEN YEARS AGO — The names of 575 pupils in the fourth to eighth grades in the East Liverpool city school district were placed on the honor roll for the fourth - week grade period.

A committee from the Klondyke Home and School Association, headed by Charles Straight, requested the Board of Education for a separation of the combined fifth-sixth grade room in the school.

Mrs. J. E. Madden of East Palestine was re-elected president for the East Liverpool Deanery of the National Council of Catholic Women.

Distorted Reports?

By David Lawrence

Training Manual Issues Seen Twisted

Are the American people getting a fair report on what the Air Force Reserve training manual said about the "people's right to know" and about Communistic activity in the churches? Many members of Congress think not.

David Lawrence

The best way perhaps to give the viewpoint of those members of Congress is to present some of the testimony, originally heard in executive session, when the Air Force secretary, Dudley C. Sharp, testified. This now has been released for publication.

First of all, it's necessary to read in full text the paragraphs in the Air Force manual dealing with the "right to know" controversy. Here they are:

"When a newspaper prints some so-called secret data, it merely means the government no longer considers that particular data secret—it does not mean we have no secrets left. Or it could mean that clever newsmen took pieces of unclassified information which they were authorized to have, put them together and came up with the right answer.

"However, because such accounts may have given the correct information does not mean that the information is no longer classified. Newspapers are not official—and until the government declassifies security information, it remains classified.

"Another rather foolish remark often heard is that Americans have a right to know what's going on. Most people realize the foolhardiness of such a suggestion. If a football team should start telling the other side the plays it planned to use, their opponents would sweep them off the field. It's the same in war—hot or cold; if we tell our secrets, we are likely to be beaten, and beaten badly."

IMMEDIATELY after this quotation is printed in the testimony, there occurs this exchange between Richard Arends, staff director of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the secretary of the Air Force, Mr. Sharp:

"Mr. Arends: Mr. Secretary, the whole import of that language is that the military is entitled to protect secrets, is it not "Secretary? Sharp: Yes, I would think so; yes, sir.

"Mr. Arends: It is not intended, as you read the two paragraphs in entire context, to convey the impression that the American people as such are not entitled to know in general what is going on; isn't that correct?

"Secretary Sharp: That certainly is correct; yes, sir."

At another point in the same executive session, Mr. Arends took up the section dealing with Communist infiltration in the churches and read again from the manual which declared that the Communist party in this country had instructed many of its members to infiltrate the churches.

THE MANUAL had made this comment!

"Again, to stop Communists we must be careful not to attack the majority of faithful ministers and church-goers. We must merely search out those who back Moscow right down the line."

Mr. Arends said to the committee:

"In view of the secretary's repudiation of the information conveyed respecting The National Council of Churches of Christ in America, the chairman, — Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.)—issued a statement to the effect that the leadership of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America had hundreds or at least over one hundred, affiliations with Communist fronts and causes. Since then we have made careful, but yet incomplete checks and it is a complete understatement.

"Thus far of the leadership of the National Council of Churches of Christ in America, we have found over 100 persons in leadership capacity with either Communist front records or records of service to Communist causes.

"The aggregate affiliations of the leadership, instead of being in the hundreds as the chairman first indicated, is now, according to our latest count, into the thousands, and we have yet to complete our check, which would certainly suggest, on the basis of the authoritative sources of this committee, that the statement that there is infiltration of fellow travelers in churches and educational institutions is a complete understatement."

Rep. Donald L. Jackson, (R-Calif.), a member of the same committee, charged that some newspapers last Friday twisted the words of Cardinal Spellman of New York into a "defense" of those who had criticized the Air Force manual.

THE CARDINAL in his statement referring to Protestant chaplains with whom he was associated in wartime, said he would "deplore it if any unfair deductions from general accusations were interpreted to reflect in any way on their loyalty to our country or on the loyalty of the general body of ministers whom they represent."

Rep. Jackson called Cardinal Spellman's attention to the misinterpretation of his statement as a defense of those who had criticized the Air Force manual. He received from Cardinal Spellman a telegram in reply which said:

"I cannot understand how some of the press distorted my statement. I respect the fact that Congressman Walter, you and other members of your committee have rendered outstanding service in exposing Communist activities."

It is indeed on the whole an unfortunate controversy and maybe the clergymen who aired it publicly in the first place would have been better advised if they had written privately to the Defense Department and called attention to ambiguous paragraphs or to those which might better have been omitted.

Debate Goes On And On

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The civil rights fight in Congress goes on and on. Sometimes it seems as confused as ever. If there is to be a quick and quiet end to it, the House apparently will have to provide it.

For a month, through Southern filibuster and miscellaneous debate, the Senate talked on civil rights like a man addressing himself in the mirror. He wasn't changing his mind but at least he had a respectful audience.

Then over the weekend Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, said he thought the Senate might just wait till the House passed a civil rights bill and then approve that. A couple of weeks ago, when others had a similar idea, Dirksen had advocated going ahead with the Senate's own bill.

The House, which started last week on its own civil rights bill, has worked much faster. Unlike the Senate, where debate is unlimited, the House agreed to cut speechmaking short. It expects to pass the bill this week and send it to the Senate.

But Monday Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, leader of the majority Democrats, called for the Senate to get busy disposing of more than 100 proposed amendments to its own bill.

For the Senate to discuss and act on 100 or more amendments—particularly since each senator can try to tack amendments on an amendment—should be quite a spectacle.

A handful of Southerners—18—kept the Senate in knots with their around-the-clock filibuster against the civil rights.

Finally, last week, some impatient Northern liberals tried to shut off the Southerners. But they couldn't find enough other senators to go along with them and make it stick. Instead, the Senate resumed regular sessions without the around-the-clock talking.

Then Sen. Frank J. Lausche, Ohio Democrat, proposed amending the administration's bill. One section called for making it a crime to obstruct a federal court order in school integration cases.

Lausche suggested it be made a crime to obstruct court orders in any kind of case, including labor disputes. The Southerners, who wouldn't buy what the bill proposed in school cases, were willing to go along on Lausche's broader idea.

Northern liberals, who may have thought this was the only way to avoid frustration of court orders in school cases, presented the extraordinary spectacle of going along with the Southerners.

Then labor unions screamed, because the change would make it a crime to interfere with antistrike injunctions as well as antisegregation and other orders. The Senate ended up knocking out the whole section, including the amendment it had just adopted.

This was about as dizzy a performance as the Senate has put on in a long time. But it will probably look intellectual compared with what lies ahead if the Senate ever gets tangled in all those 100 other amendments.

Wooden water pipes about 120 years old, and still serviceable, were recently dug up in downtown Chicago. The pipes were made from white pine logs 11 inches in diameter with a four-inch diameter hole.

Midland Board Affects Savings

School Heater Overhauled

The Midland Board of Education Monday night took no action on a $6,266 bid to improve the high school heating system after a report that the school maintenance personnel is overhauling the present equipment, apparently at a savings.

The Minneapolis-Honeywell Co. submitted the offer at the last meeting to install new equipment, including valves and damper motors, for a second phase of the project.

FOR A REVISED second step, the board will study an offer of Robert Gridley, representative of the firm, for temperature control in the old gymnasium costing $380.

The gymnasium was not included in the first step, costing $2,913 and started last November, which provided suitable air pressure to new thermostats in classrooms.

In the gymnasium offer, the company will install two thermostats and the necessary tubing to maintain pressure to them and radiator valves. Gridley said that air leaks had not been found in lines to the gym wing and new tubing is necessary.

The board said it felt that several shower and locker rooms in the wing, which are seldom used, could be controlled by hand valves and did not warrant greater expense.

High school rooms had been overheating due to lack of air pressure for control at thermostats. The heating equipment is over 30 years old.

—:—

RAY CONJESKI, maintenance supervisor, reported that his work on the heating system is progressing. He said lights have been installed at the Midland Heights playground and will be connected after inspection by the Duquesne Light Co.

On a motion by James Morrison, the board approved a premium payment of $799.34 for renewal of compensation insurance with the State Workingmen's Insurance Fund for a year ending April 25, 1961.

The board agreed to a postponement until summer of installation of a new fire hydrant by the Municipal Authority. Borough Council has agreed to pay for maintenance.

During a 15-minute recess, board members inspected quarters in the basement at the east end of the new gymnasium building for use as a new lunchroom.

—:—

THE BOARD agreed to use it on a trial basis until the end of the present school term. A place more convenient than the Music Forum and the old gymnasium was felt needed. Details will be worked out by Principal William A. Walters.

Charles Williams, a janitor at the 7th St. School was transferred to the 4th St. School, at a salary of $340 a month, as of Feb. 24, on a motion by Frank Aloi.

Howard Roberts was hired as a janitor at 7th St. for $300 a month, effective March 7. Vittoria Rocca, janitor at the new gymnasium building, was given a raise from $270 to $300 a month, effective March 1.

George Mastrovich, Paul Farnan, Charles Polce, and Mel Laing, teachers, were granted only half-day pay when they could not attend an in-service training day in February. They had asked full pay.

AFTER A motion by Edward Cilli, property committee chairman, the board approved use of the old gymnasium on March 18, 21 and 22 by the Serbian Athletic Club for basketball practice at the usual fee.

The Catholic Daughters of America, Court 653, was granted use of the auditorium for a concert April 3 at the usual fee.

Miss Bernice Coffin, secretary, was authorized to write George Hamilton and John Petchel, basketball coach and football coaches respectively, and their staffs, letters of commendations for their "fine performances" in the past seasons. John Shovlin, athletic chairman, made the motion.

The board approved a request of the Industry Parent-Teacher Association that the 4th St. School Choir and its director, Miss Despena Gagianas, attend a meeting April 7 at Logan School in Ohio View.

ON A MOTION by John Uccellini, the board granted Girl Scout Troop 238 of Industry use of the old gym at the usual fee for a donkey basketball game to be held in the near future. Proceeds will help finance a trip to Washington in the summer.

New rules concerning school groups on field trips were approved after a motion by Maurice Newman, rules and regulations chairman. They require that when time or distance of a trip is extended, approval must be obtained from the school solicitor and insurance increased. Also, any agreement between a school group and a transportation company must be approved by the solicitor.

Miss Coffin was authorized to advertise for bids for supplies for the 1960-1961 school year, including general and art, science, janitorial, industrial arts and playground.

THE SCHOOL calendar for 1960-1961 was approved. It includes a change recommended by Supt. Ralph H. Jewell, that the Christmas vacation be extended from Dec. 31 to include Jan. 2 and the last day of school be moved from June 7 to June 8.

It provides an in-service day for teachers, Aug. 29; first day for pupils, Aug. 30; Labor Day holiday, Sept. 5; PSEA in-service day, Oct. 7; Veterans Day holiday Nov. 11; Thanksgiving holiday, Nov. 24-25; Christmas-New Year's holiday, Dec. 23-Jan. 2; Beaver County in-service day for teachers, Feb. 17; Easter holiday, March 30-31; Memorial Day, May 30; in-service day for teachers, June 6-7; and last day for pupils and teachers, June 8.

Pupils will attend 185 days of school and teachers 190.

THE BOARD turned down a request of C. Lloyd Deffenbaugh, music supervisor, to attend a convention. According to rules, other supervisors and coaches attend a convention each year except for the music and art supervisors, who alternate each year.

Jewell told the board that this was the first time that both supervisors had asked to attend a convention in the same year. He said that it does not seem fair that others could attend each year and those two every other year. The board formally agreed that it would give the matter consideration in next year's budget.

General and special bills totaling $10,206.53 were approved for payment. Cash receipts of $38,370.72, including $38,045.83 in tuition, were accepted.

MRS. ELDAMAE Castelli, treasurer reported a balance of $17,117.32 as of Feb. 29. Rudolph Presutti, tax collector, reported $1,390.58 in taxes including $66.75 in penalties, were deposited during February, leaving a balance of $12,611.82 on the 1959 tax duplicate of $495,155.63.

Purchase of books in the amount of $209 was approved on a request of the Carnegie Library Board of Trustees. Interim orders, placed by Jewell and amounting to $472.33 were approved.

Toronto District Man Suffers Rifle Wound

TORONTO — Dale Swickard of R. D. 2 is in Martins Ferry City Hospital with wounds received in an accidental shooting Sunday night.

Swickard said he and his brothhad left the Swickard house to investigate an attack by dogs on his sheep.

Hawthorne was carrying a .22-caliber rifle, with barrel down when it discharged accidentally. The bullet struck Swickard in the right ankle and continued downward through his foot.

NEW CUMBERLAND — Squire John Herron Monday fined Wilbur M. Wright, 43, of Bridgeport $25 and costs for hazardous driving and $10 and costs for lack of an inspection sticker. He was cited by the West Virginia State Police.

Former Titanium Official Gets New Post In Crucible

Thomas P. Roth has been appointed to the newly created position as manager of manpower planning with the Crucible Steel Co. at Pittsburgh. He was formerly training co-ordinator with the company's Titanium Division in Midland, and more recently staff instructor in management development with IBM in Owego, N. Y.

In his new position, Roth will provide corporate programs to identify manpower needs, to obtain qualified personnel and to develop the skills, knowledge and potential of Crucible employes.

A native of Harrisburg, Roth was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a bachelor of science degree in economics.

Since his first job in 1940 as personnel manager with the E. F. Houghton & Co. in Philadelphia, he was personnel officer with the Veterans Administration in Philadelphia, assistant personnel director with Piasecki Helicopter Co. in Morton, Pa., training co-ordinator with E. I. duPont deNemours & Co. in Wilmington, Del., and training co-ordinator with Rem-Cru Titanium, Inc., in Midland, then jointly owned by Crucible and Remington Arms Co. He joined IBM in 1958, shortly after Crucible acquired full ownership of Rem-Cru.

Roth is a member of the American Society of Training Directors, Research Institute of America, American Management Association, Reserve Officers Association, National Guard Association, Knights of Columbus and Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Mary Patterson's Secretary Resigns

Miss Mary Ellen Martin has announced her resignation, effective April 1, as executive secretary of the Mary Patterson Memorial.

Miss Martin has served for 11 years, beginning her duties Jan. 24, 1949.

Dr. Herschel A. Rubin, president of the board, said no successor has been named.

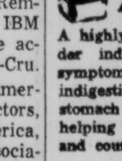

Miss Martin served five years as assistant to the managing director of the Skirvin Towers Hotels in Oklahoma City before taking over duties as executive secretary. She previously was associated 15 years with the former Graton & Knight Co., Cleveland tanners.

She is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Martin of Bloomfield and a sister of the late Edward T. Martin, a former city funeral director.

Miss Martin said she plans to return to Cleveland to reside.

Thomas P. Roth has been appointed to the newly created position as manager of manpower planning with the Crucible Steel Co. at Pittsburgh. He was formerly training co-ordinator with the company's Titanium Division in Midland, and more recently staff instructor in management development with IBM in Owego, N. Y.

In his new position, Roth will provide corporate programs to identify manpower needs, to obtain qualified personnel and to develop the skills, knowledge and potential of Crucible employes.

A native of Harrisburg, Roth was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a bachelor of science degree in economics.

Since his first job in 1940 as personnel manager with the E. F. Houghton & Co. in Philadelphia, he was personnel officer with the Veterans Administration in Philadelphia, assistant personnel director with Piasecki Helicopter Co. in Morton, Pa., training co-ordinator with E. I. duPont deNemours & Co. in Wilmington, Del., and training co-ordinator with Rem-Cru Titanium, Inc., in Midland, then jointly owned by Crucible and Remington Arms Co. He joined IBM in 1958, shortly after Crucible acquired full ownership of Rem-Cru.

Roth is a member of the American Society of Training Directors, Research Institute of America, American Management Association, Reserve Officers Association, National Guard Association, Knights of Columbus and Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Mary Patterson's Secretary Resigns

Miss Mary Ellen Martin has announced her resignation, effective April 1, as executive secretary of the Mary Patterson Memorial.

Miss Martin has served for 11 years, beginning her duties Jan. 24, 1949.

Dr. Herschel A. Rubin, president of the board, said no successor has been named.

Miss Martin served five years as assistant to the managing director of the Skirvin Towers Hotels in Oklahoma City before taking over duties as executive secretary. She previously was associated 15 years with the former Graton & Knight Co., Cleveland tanners.

She is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Martin of Bloomfield and a sister of the late Edward T. Martin, a former city funeral director.

Miss Martin said she plans to return to Cleveland to reside.

West Virginia Vote Eyed As Religion Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—West Virginia's May 10 Democratic primary is being watched by politicians as a possible test of whether religion will be a major presidential campaign issue.

The subject may not be discussed openly, and other campaign issues will becloud whatever significance it may have in the voting results.

But in an overwhelmingly Protestant state, the balloting will indicate to Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and others how much effect his being a Roman Catholic will have on his chances of winning his party's nomination.

Kennedy is opposed in the Democratic primary by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) in what amounts to a popularity contest. Humphrey is a member of the Congregational Church in Minnesota and an associated member of the Methodist Church in Washington.

West Virginians are reported to be almost 97 per cent Protestant. There will be no substantial representation of Catholic voters as there was among Democrats in New Hampshire and will be in Wisconsin where Kennedy meets Humphrey in the April 5 primary.

4 Red Sailors Rescued At Sea To Land In U.S.

ABOARD USS KEARSARGE (AP)—Four village-reared Soviet sailors, who survived seven weeks adrift on the stormy Pacific Ocean, step ashore today in the United States, a strange and distant land for them.

They had some apprehensions about the future until Soviet Embassy officials told them—by shore-to-ship telephone—they were being proclaimed as heroes throughout their homeland.

The four, tossed about in the Pacific in a 50-foot landing craft from Jan. 17 until rescued by this 41,000-ton carrier March 7, are landing at San Francisco's Marina Green.

After two days in San Francisco, the sailors will go to New York by jet airliner and probably will remain under hospital observation there two weeks.

They still are lean and weak physically, nine days after Kearsarge fliers spotted their battered and listing landing craft more than 1,000 miles southeast of the sailors' Kurile Island base. They had been swept to sea by a sudden storm during a training exercise.

Spellers Named At No. 16 School

No. 16 School in Yellow Creek Township will be represented at the district spelling bee Friday at Wayne School by Jean Serafy, Beverly Reight, Jim Falconer, Kathy Tice and Kathy Maylone. They were winners in an elimination contest held Friday afternoon.

Jean Serafy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Serafy. Beverly Reight, the second-place winner, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Reight of Glasgow. Falconer placed third and Buddy Rice and Sherry Mercer are alternates in the fifth and sixth grade group.

Kathy Maylone is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Maylone of Glasgow and Kathy Tice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tice of the Old Irondale Rd., for the seventh and eighth grade group. Mary Esther Clutter and Jean Reight are the alternates.

Jerry Russell pronounced the words for the seventh and eighth graders and Miss Edna Duncan for the fifth and sixth grades. Mrs. Freda Schubert, principal, and Mrs. Dorothy Price were the judges. Awards of a silver dollar to the first - and second - place winners and 50 cents to the third - place winner were presented by Mrs. Schubert.

Columbus Man Given Yearly Ceramic Award

Some 100 attended a dinner meeting of the Pittsburgh Section of the American Ceramic Society Friday night in Pittsburgh, when John D. Sullivan of Columbus was presented the annual Albert Victor Bleininger Memorial Award.

Arthur A. Wells and Robert M. Wells of the Homer Laughlin China Co. were the only persons who attended from the East Liverpool area.

Sullivan, technical director of Battelle Memorial Institute, was presented the award "for distinguished achievement in the field of ceramics." He received a gold medal and scroll. The award honors the late research director of the Homer Laughlin China Co.

Sewage Plant Explained

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP)—Utilities Superintendent Charles Petitt outlined for City Council plans for a new $1,888,987 sewage treatment plant. Council is expected to approve the plans next week. The plant, requiring about 18 months to build, will have double the capacity of the present plant, built in 1938.

World War II Hero For Russia Claimed

MOSCOW (AP)—The death of Marshal Semyon Ilyich Bogdanov, 65, World War II hero and commander of Soviet armored forces from 1948 to 1955, was announced today.

The obituary, published in Moscow newspapers, was signed by Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Soviet military leaders. It said Bogdanov died unexpectedly Saturday but gave no details.

Price Of Pork Takes Decline

One of this week's better pork values is the Boston butt, cut either as a roast or into pork steaks, according to the weekly summary of Ed Watkins, market information agent with the Agricultural Extension Service.

This cut of meat is low on bone content and some markets completely remove the small amount normally found, he said. Since it is a shoulder cut, it is possible for it to carry a little too much fat, so careful selection is in order, he added.

Pork prices are a bit higher since hog prices have risen slightly from their extremely low prices in January and February. It still is one of the economical meat choices however. Other popular pork choices are loin roasts, picnics, and hams.

Beef prices are a little lower than a year ago, even though it doesn't seem that way when buying. Rib steaks and cube steaks are among the value leaders at the meat counters. Both of these cuts can be high quality tender cuts of meat that are hard to beat for a special dinner, Watkins said.

Fresh vegetable prices have eased on some foods and increased on others. A particularly good value at this time are carrots, cabbage, rutabagas, endive, escarole, head lettuce and celery.

Although lettuce and celery prices are not as low as consumers would like to see them, they are much more favorable than in recent weeks. Cabbage is very economical, but careful shopping is necessary since there is an amount of quite leafy, and somewhat wilted heads on the market.

Some of the head lettuce is also light and fluffy. A heavy dense head generally is most wanted in head lettuce and cabbage.

Oranges, apples, bananas and grapefruit are providing the bulk of fresh fruit at this time. Oranges and grapefruit in mesh bags tend to be somewhat cheaper by the pound than when purchased individually from a bulk display. These fruits can be economically supplemented with canned applesauce, sliced peaches and pears.

American merinos sheep have a fleece (wool shorn in a single mat) of 12 to 18 pounds. Average sheep of other breeds is 5 to 8 pounds.

Hookstown Class To Provide Support For Korean Child, 9

The Young Adult Class of the Mill Creek Presbyterian Church at Hookstown has announced the "adoption" of a 9-year-old Korean girl through the Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., which has international headquarters in New York City.

The class, of which James Stewart is president, will send $180 a year in addition to clothing, food and money gifts. It is pledged to send $15 monthly.

In the child's case history furnished by the agency, the girl is listed as Hwang Soon Ja, who lives in Pusan, South Korea, with her mother, two brothers and a sister. She was born Sept. 15, 1950.

Her family originally came from North Korea, where the father worked as a laborer. When the war started in 1950, her oldest brother was killed in a bombing and the family decided to seek refuge in Pusan.

Her father was drafted for the labor corps and after five months returned home because his health failed and he came down with tuberculosis. He died five years later and his widow was left penniless with the three children to support.

The mother, who can longer make ends meet, has been earning a living by peddling vegetables, but her income never exceeds $10 a month. They live in a one-room hut and have no relatives who can assist them.

Soon Ja is in the second grade of primary school and is said to be a diligent and talented student.

Other officers of the class include Tom Kinder, vice-president, and Mrs. Kenneth F. Shane, secretary-treasurer.

Pilots 60 Years Or Over Grounded By FAA's Order

NEW YORK (AP)—Commercial airline pilots 60 years of age or older were grounded today by a Federal Aviation Agency order.

The ban went into effect at midnight after Federal Judge Alexander Bicks Monday denied a motion by the Air Line Pilots Assn. seeking a preliminary injunction against the ruling. Forty-seven pilots were affected immediately.

Attorneys for the pilots argued that the order, issued last December, was arbitrary and unreasonable.

In his order, FAA Administrator E. R. Quesada maintained that to allow pilots 60 or over to fly passengers at speeds of 500 miles an hour would be a hazard to safety in air carrier operations.

The pilots immediately appealed Bicks' decision.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Do you think children should repay parents for education given beyond the high school level?

I'm referring to parents in modest circumstances who have to sacrifice home ownership for themselves in order to send their children to college. I might add, the parents I have in mind have several children and are seeing to it that each one gets a degree. Thank you. — CHARLEY WEST, VA.

Dear Charley: Educating children is part of being good parents. This means beyond high school, if the student is serious and eager to get a higher education. When there are several children, each one should work part time and do whatever is possible to lighten the financial load.

Few kids say "thanks for educating me, folks" any more than they would say "thanks for giving me life." But, if they are worth their salt, they appreciate the sacrifices made by parents and say "thank you" later—in other ways.

Children who receive higher education usually wind up on a higher rung of the economic ladder. Parents who have sacrificed for their children in order to educate them should not worry about home ownership—or anything else— in their old age. The kids should look after them as a matter of personal integrity.

Bashful 17

Dear Ann: I'm a girl 16 who wants to know if I'm being silly or if I have a right to gripe.

My boy friend is 17. We've been going together a year. On my birthday he gave me a pink silk scarf and said: "My mother got this from my aunt but she doesn't like the color." On Christmas he gave me a pair of gloves and said: "These are too small for my sister. If they fit you, they're yours."

Valentine's Day he gave me a box of chewy candy and said: "Nobody at our house likes this stuff. My dad's boss always brings it when he comes to dinner."

I told my mother the next time he brings a second-hand gift I'm going to refuse to take it. She said not to be so materialistic—that it's the thought that counts. What do you say?—GARBAGE PAIL.

-:-

Dear Pail: I have a sneaking suspicion the gifts may not be second hand at all. Perhaps your bashful beau doesn't want to admit he thinks enough of you to go out and buy a gift, so he fibs to cover up.

This is par for a 17-year-old but don't tell him I said so.

Same Opinion Still

Dear Ann: I was disappointed in you when you backed up the teacher and told the parents of a 17-year-old boy to let him read anything in the public library. The specific book causing the controversy was the one banned by the postmaster general.

It was shocking that you should condone in print such cheap, salacious pornography. Even if the boy was mature, an excellent student and an avid reader, he still should not be permitted to fill his good mind with trash.— LET DOWN.

Dear Let: My position is unchanged. A 17-year-old, mature, well-balanced, voracious reader who makes excellent grades should be permitted to make his own selection of reading material. I would not recommend such privileges for all 17-year-olds but this boy is exceptional as his teacher testified.

Young kids who would hide behind the cowshed with dirty books are not likely to select a novel by the distinguished author D. H. Lawrence.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wellsville Pastors Plan Good Friday

Plans for conducting a union Good Friday service April 15 were outlined at a meeting of the Wellsville Ministerial Association Monday morning at the Central Federal Savings & Loan Association.

The union service will be held from noon to 3 p. m. at the Central Methodist Church. The theme will be "Seven Words from the Cross" with seven speakers participating.

The Rev. Richard Beidler, president, presided. Plans also were made to attend a meeting of the East Liverpool Ministerial Association next month. No regular meeting will be scheduled.

A discussion was held on the Christian Life and Leadership School being conducted each Friday night through Lent at the First Christian Church. The second session will be held Friday night at 7:30.

The Rev. Joseph Varner Jr. conducted devotions. The pastors also reviewed schedules for rest home visitations, offering prayer at Council meetings and participating in radio broadcasts.

Traveling Flag Given To Grange At Elkton

ELKTON — The Salem Grange presented the traveling flag and a program at a meeting of the Elkrun Grange Friday night. About 31 members and guests from Salem, Mt. Nebo, Clarkson and Midway Granges attended.

Galen Greenisen of Salem spoke on the agriculture appropriation. Judy Zimmerman played a piano solo, Mrs. Charles Vincent sang a solo and W. J. Zimmerman and Greenisen sang a duet. Mrs. Helen Hart spoke on cancer.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How do movie stars on strike spend their extra leisure time?

A spot survey shows some following typically glamorous pursuits. For others, the sudden break in film work has made possible long-awaited family reunions.

The idled performers for the most part are active—even if it is only the business of relaxation.

Rock Hudson is off on a cruise at the helm of his yacht.

"You can reach me by radio when the strike is over," he told his agents.

Shirley MacLaine flew to Japan to visit her husband, Steve Parker, who spends most of his time there producing movies.

Simone Signoret, the French actress up for an Academy Award in "Room At the Top," holds court every lunch hour in the polo lounge of the Beverly Hills Hotel, meeting Academy voters.

Elizabeth Taylor, another Oscar favorite, took off for a holiday in Jamaica with husband, Eddie Fisher. Both were appearing in "Butterfield 8" when the strike suspended production.

Peter Lawford is studying for his final citizenship test. He wants to vote next November, he hopes, for his brother-in-law—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass).

Of the "Let's Make Love" cast, Marilyn Monroe flew to New York; Yves Montand is helping his wife, Miss Signoret, in her Oscar campaign, while England's Frankie Vaughan is cutting records.

Shelley Winters, another Oscar nominee, took her husband back to New York with her. Anthony Franciosa was appearing in "Go Naked For the World" when the strike stopped that movie.

Bing Crosby, an expert at leisure, went to New York to do the Perry Como TV show.

Gina Lollobrigida journeyed to Toronto to take a look at her new Canadian home.

Charlton Heston is using the time to plug openings of "Ben-Hur" in Washington and Tokyo.

In Arabic the name of the Sahara Desert means "nothing."

Caught Flatfooted

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—Sen. Walter H. Jones was caught flatfooted Monday when his name was called to talk about one of his bills. He had no idea which one it was. But Jones was equal to the occasion. "If I'm sponsoring it, it's a good bill," he said.

Hookstown Auxiliary Plans For Poppy Day

Activities for "Poppy Day" were outlined when the auxiliary of American Legion Post 952 of Hookstown met Friday night in the post home. Twelve attended.

Mrs. Virginia McDonald, president, said the sale will be held May 14. A poppy poster contest will be conducted in South Side Schools and the winners from each class will receive $2.

The unit made plans to attend a Tri-County Council meeting March 24 in Ambridge. Members will bring white socks for hospitalized veterans.

Birthday and Valentine Day gifts have been sent to an orphan of a veteran aided by the auxiliary, it was reported. The next meeting is April 8 at 8 p. m. in the post home.

Hancock To Hold Tests For Census Positions

Tests will be administered Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the Chester City Hall for North Hancock County residents desiring to serve as enumerators for the census April 1.

Mrs. Frances Ralston of near New Cumberland will be in charge of the tests, which may be taken by either men or women 21 or older.

About nine are expected to be employed by the Census Bureau to visit homes in Grant District. Enumerators will visit homes and pick up prepared forms which are being mailed by the Bureau of the Census.

Dog Warden Seeking Homes For Beagle, Pup

Two more dogs are seeking a family to adopt, Dog Warden R. J. Croyle said today.

The warden said he is holding a female beagle hound and a 6-month-old black puppy at the city pound while attempting to locate homes.

However, Croyle said he is not able to pick up dogs that owners no longer want. He said he has received calls to pick up the animals because the owners do not want to purchase licenses.

Explorer Eric the Red gave Greenland its name when he esplored it in the year 982. He named it that in the hopes of attracting settlers from Iceland.

Wellsville DAR Chapter Hears Scouting Official

"Faith In Our Youth" was discussed by Bennett D. Taylor of Lisbon, Columbiana County Boy Scout Council executive, at the meeting of the Bethia Southwick Chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution of Wellsville Friday night. Mrs. George Guthrie of Louisiana Ave., Chester, was hostess.

Taylor told of his 19 years in scout work and urged adults to have faith in their youth as "their trials are greater than preceding generations." He also cited a lack of discipline and understanding of their problems.

Mrs. Carolyn Vogel, regent, presided, using the DAR ritual. Mrs. Almeda Jones, flag chairman, led in the pledge of allegiance, followed by the national anthem. Mrs. Dwight MacLean, chaplain, used Ps. 145:3-12 for devotions and held a memorial for Mrs. Laura Parker and Mrs. Laura Hitch, DAR members.

In a report, Mrs. Clarence Green, national defense chairman, said the DAR opposes total disarmament which would endanger the sovereignity of the United States at the next Summit meeting. A published list of church leaders allegedly connected with the Communisty party was displayed. Mrs. George Fraser read a letter from Mrs. Ruth Bronson of Bylas, Ariz., thanking the chapter for warm clothing sent to the Indians. A nominating committee, including Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Donald Wolf, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Fraser, was named.

A buffet lunch was served with Mrs. Vogel presiding at the tea table. Mrs. Wolf and Mrs. Jones assisted the hostess and a green, yellow and white color scheme was used in the table appointments. Mrs. Taylor, wife of the speaker and member of the Louis Kenney Chapter of Lisbon, was a guest.

The next meeting will be April 8 at the home of Mrs. Florence Hau of Main St., Wellsville, with "Faith Through Music" at the theme. Mrs. Isabel Hart, music chairman, is in charge and Mrs. Alva Dickey, conservation chairman, will participate in the program.

Serago announced that the regular meeting of the Lisbon lodge will be held tonight at 7:30, when the Master Mason degree will be conferred.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Keirns of Lisbon R. D. 3 had as Saturday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lovell of Zanesville and Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Dille of Lisbon R. D. 3. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Keirns were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hall of East Palestine. Other guests in the Hall home were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lamoncha of Columbiana, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson of Lisbon R. D. 1 and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClusky and son, Jimmie, of Youngstown.

Miss Esther Stackhouse of E. Chestnut St. spent the weekend in East Canton with her cousin, Mrs. Orlando Elsass, having been called there by the sudden death of Mr. Elsass. The funeral will be held today.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ferguson and family of N. Jefferson St. spent the weekend in Columbus with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Ferguson and family. While there Ferguson attended the State Highway Patrol Auxiliary convention. Mrs. William J. Ferguson of Wellsville, mother of the men, accompanied them.

BRT Chairman Dies

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lloyd J. LaRose, chairman of the board of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, died of a heart attack while on his way to see his doctor Monday. Feeling chest pains, LaRose, 51, stopped at Lakewood Hospital, where he collapsed.

LISBON — Miles I. Duvall of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will speak at the Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday noon at the American Legion dining hall. Duvall will speak on "Communications of the Future." Charles Faust is program chairman for March.

Gas Tax Distributed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Political subdivisions received $2,822,400 in gasoline tax revenues Monday from State Auditor James A. Rhodes. This boosted distributions so far this year to $10,844,445.

Wellsville DAR Chapter Hears Scouting Official

"Faith In Our Youth" was discussed by Bennett D. Taylor of Lisbon, Columbiana County Boy Scout Council executive, at the meeting of the Bethia Southwick Chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution of Wellsville Friday night. Mrs. George Guthrie of Louisiana Ave., Chester, was hostess.

Taylor told of his 19 years in scout work and urged adults to have faith in their youth as "their trials are greater than preceding generations." He also cited a lack of discipline and understanding of their problems.

Mrs. Carolyn Vogel, regent, presided, using the DAR ritual. Mrs. Almeda Jones, flag chairman, led in the pledge of allegiance, followed by the national anthem. Mrs. Dwight MacLean, chaplain, used Ps. 145:3-12 for devotions and held a memorial for Mrs. Laura Parker and Mrs. Laura Hitch, DAR members.

In a report, Mrs. Clarence Green, national defense chairman, said the DAR opposes total disarmament which would endanger the sovereignity of the United States at the next Summit meeting. A published list of church leaders allegedly connected with the Communisty party was displayed.

Mrs. George Fraser read a letter from Mrs. Ruth Bronson of Bylas, Ariz., thanking the chapter for warm clothing sent to the Indians. A nominating committee, including Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Donald Wolf, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Fraser, was named.

A buffet lunch was served with Mrs. Vogel presiding at the tea table. Mrs. Wolf and Mrs. Jones assisted the hostess and a green, yellow and white color scheme was used in the table appointments. Mrs. Taylor, wife of the speaker and member of the Louis Kenney Chapter of Lisbon, was a guest.

The next meeting will be April 8 at the home of Mrs. Florence Hau of Main St., Wellsville, with "Faith Through Music" at the theme. Mrs. Isabel Hart, music chairman, is in charge and Mrs. Alva Dickey, conservation chairman, will participate in the program.

Heaviest man on the Detroit Tiger roster is first baseman Steve Bilko at 235 pounds.

Replacement Of Span Eyed At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — A proposal to replace another old bridge on Main St., regulation of junk yards and improvement of Route 644 inside the village were discussed at a meeting of Council Monday night.

It was suggested that the street committee confer with Columbiana County commissioners about placing the bridge project on the budget for 1961.

The proposal calls for replacing the old span located between the high school and grade school. Two former spans, originally railroad bridges, were replaced by the county in 1957.

Mayor Kenneth Leishman reported the Ohio Highway Department plans widening and resurfacing of Route 644 between Salineville and Summitville, including a portion of the route inside the village.

Council is to determine — at the suggestion of state highway representatives — if an easement can be obtained from the Emmett Tolson property in the West End to permit elimination of an unsafe curve of Route 39.

An ordinance authorizing the state road work within the village was approved.

Councilman John Beadnell reported he has received complaints about the unsightliness of junk yards in the village. After a discussion, Solicitor Warren Bettis was instructed to study ordinances of other communities regarding regulations for junk yards and to report at the next meeting March 28.

Discussion was also held concerning the jointly operated village-Washington Township dump and its condition. It was pointed out there is no shelter for the dump custodian who is unable to be there in severe weather. The health committee is to confer with the township trustees concerning a shelter.

Mayor Leishman and Councilman Orvel Tolson reported on a recent meeting of community leaders at Canton with the new Ohio Department of Industrial and Economic Development officials.

Tolson said a survey of each community is to be completed and returned to the department. Mayor Leishman appointed Councilman Donald Lewis and Joseph Knight and Fr. Homer Oliver of St. Patrick's Catholic Church to complete the survey form.

Mayor Leishman warned no political posters would be permitted upon utility poles or other places in the community, and police have orders to tear them down.

'Open House' Due To Honor Woman On 90th Birthday

The 90th birthday anniversary of Mrs. John Gray will be celebrated with open house Thursday night from 7 until 10 o'clock at the home of her grandson and his family, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Johnston, 1129 Vine St.

Mrs. Gray was born in Marietta, but has been a virtual lifetime resident of this vicinity. Since November, she has been residing with her daughter, Mrs. James A. Johnston, of Lehigh Acres, Fla., who accompanied her for an extended visit. They made the trip by plane.

Her other daughters are Mrs. Melvin George, 1428 Lisbon St., and Mrs. Ada Shoub of Gary, Ind. She has 13 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren and 12 great-great grandchildren.

A sister, Mrs. Eva Ward, resides on Dresden Ave. Her husband died in 1948.

Board Fills Posts At Beaver Local

Mrs. Mary Eleanor Thompson of Beaver Local High School's faculty was named dean of girls for the second semester at a meeting of the Board of Education Monday night. She succeeds Mrs. Bruce Costanzo on leave of absence.

Mrs. Dorothy Marie Meyers of New Waterford was hired as home economics instructor, replacing Mrs. Gretchen Dawson, also on leave of absence.

Mrs. Verna Kunkle of near Rogers was hired as custodian at the Oak Grove School, succeeding the late Horace Crawford.

The board authorized the renting of a safety deposit box at the depository, the Farmers Bank of Lisbon. The board also changed the next three meeting nights to March 29, April 12 and April 26, because the regular meeting nights would conflict with rehearsals of a minstrel.

125 To Attend County Alcoholism Discussion

LISBON — Approximately 125 reservations are in for the conference on alcoholism to be held at the Methodist Church Wednesday noon, according to Miss Lillian Schroeder.

D. Bruce Falkey, director of the Cleveland Center on Alcoholism, will be the guest speaker.

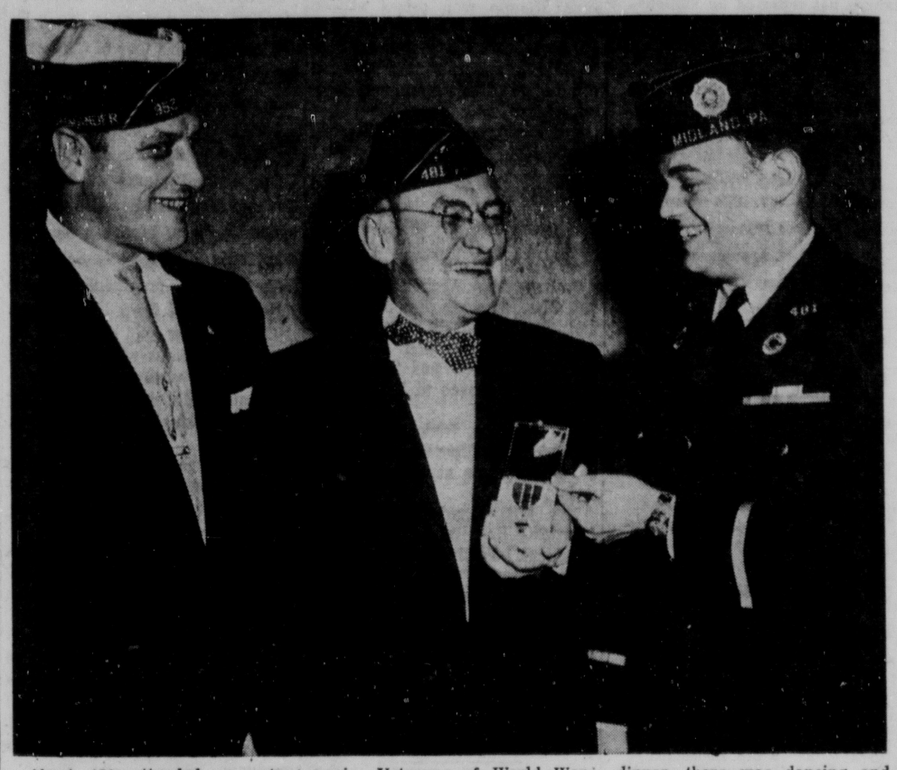

A panel discussion on "Alcohol A Community Problem" will be held.

The luncheon affair is co-sponsored by the Columbiana County Public Health League and Columbiana County Mental Health Association.

Helen Keller, who succeeded despite loss of sight, hearing and, speech, was born in Tuscumbia, Ala., in 1890.

2 Anniversaries Celebrated

150 At Midland Post Observance

About 150 attended a party held Monday evening by Midland American Legion Post 481 in observance of the Legion's 41st anniversary and of the post's 33rd.

Left to right, are William Laughlin of South Side Post 952 near Hookstown, 26th District deputy commander; Leo P. McGeehan, past commander and a charter member of Post 481, who received the merit award for recognition of past achievements, and John Reider, commander.

Laughlin was speaker in place of Everett Hugh Cox Jr. of Beaver Falls, deputy chief of staff of the Department of Pennsylvania, Veterans of World War I, who was unable to attend.

Medals were also presented by Reider to three for enrolling the most new members. They were Harry Hulton, gold medal; Truman Rodfong, silver, and William Coble, bronze.

Receiving post jackets according to a merit system for Legion work were Woodrow W. Jones, Rodfong, Bill Tilley, John Fantone, Hulton, George Huha, Coble, Lester Barr, Reider, Bill Doyle Jr., Don E. Roach and Joseph Mulach.

There were also awards for membership to 9 30-year members, and to 15 each in the 20-, 10- and 5-year brackets.

Members, their wives and guests attended. After a buffet dinner, there was dancing and music of William Smith's orchestra of Freedom and a magic show by Thomas Bryan of Midland Heights.

Lester Trainer Jr. was toastmaster. Jones and Eugene Fritz were co-chairmen.

Speaker Awaited At Guest Program Of Junior Women

Mrs. Allen D. Seward of Youngstown will speak at the "Guest Night" observance of the Junior Women's Club Thursday night in the social rooms of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church.

She is president of the Youngstown City Federation of Women's Clubs, past president of the Youngstown Garden Forum and a member of the Pine Lee Garden Club. She will give a humorous monologue in costume on flower arranging.

Mrs. Lawrence Keeper will be program chairman. Guests will be introduced during roll call.

Mrs. Howard Claypool, president, will conduct business. Mrs. Edward Adkins, Mrs. Robert Steffen, Mrs. Robert Clark, Mrs. Richard Emmerling and Mrs. Herbert Crawford will be hostesses.

Refreshments will be served by the members of the Annie Kell Friendship Class of the church.

Industry Firemen Will Give Dinner

Plans are being made by the Industry Borough volunteer fire department for a public ham dinner March 27 from 3 to 6 p. m., Noah Luster, president, reported.

Firemen discussed modernization of the fire alarm system at a meeting last week and will hold a special meeting on the problem later this month. The department is continuing its investigation of a false alarm received Saturday morning, Luster said.

Firemen were reminded of the meeting of the Tri-State Firemen's Association Friday night at 8 in Calcutta. Firemen will leave the Industry station at 7:30 p. m.

Proposed by-laws for the Firemen's Relief Association were given first reading and the second reading will be held at a session following the department's regular meeting April 14.

A dance scheduled April 23 has been postponed to April 30.

Calvin Dunlap, president of the Borough Council, has been enrolled as a new member.

Program On Art Highlights New Century Club Meeting

A program on "Art" was presented by Mrs. Phineas Randolph at the meeting of the New Century Club Saturday afternoon at the First Church of Christ.

She read a prepared paper on the subject and displayed some of the art work of her students. Members participated by drawing sketches and landscape scenes.

Miss Bernice Myler, president, opened the business, reading the quotation for the day taken from the program booklet.

She reported on the recent board meeting of the City Federation of Women's Clubs and announced the deadline for reservations for the spring meeting April 6 at the Mary Patterson Memorial will be March 31.

A contribution was given for "Crusade for Freedom" and "CARE."

Refreshments were served to 21 by Miss Mildred Rose, hostess. White mums and lighted white tapers decorated the buffet table, at which Miss Myler poured. Mrs. Purl Smith and Mrs. John Mostoller were guests.

The next meeting will be April 2 at the Mary Patterson Memorial. Mrs. Albert Reid will be hostess. Mrs. Mary Rahter will present a program on interior decorating.

Jaycees Begin Plans For Inaugural Dance

Plans for the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce inaugural ball were started at a committee meeting Monday night at the Chamber of Commerce office.

The combination dinner - dance will be held early in June. Highlights will be the installation of both Jaycee and Jaycee-ette officers, the presentation of the Patrick J. O'Farrell award to the outstanding committee chairman of the year and the presentation of other awards.

The planning committee includes Robert Hoover, chairman, Mark Forssell, Richard Milner, Flody Suarez, George Hales, Robert Lewis and Howard Pearch.

Final arrangements will be made at the next meeting Monday, April 11.

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

'Prediction' To Bring Back Quiz Format

Ever since the quiz shows went bankrupt, in fortune as well as reputation, a certain TV faction has been trying to stem the tide with what is described as a "rig - proof" quiz show.

Marie Torre

This chaste item is called "P rediction," and it may be relied on to answer, in the coming weeks' whether the quiz show format, fixable or unfixable, can survive the disgrace of a heinous scandal.

It ought to determine, in effect, whether industry surveys accurately estimate the situation when they point to unvarying viewer interest in quizzes—honest quizzes, of course!

AND "PREDICTION," maintain its backers, can't be anything but that!

Property of the Richard Hudnut Co., which plans to sponsor the show on ABC "in about four weeks, the format requires contestants to predict the outcome of a current event (such as, "Will Dr. Finch eventually draw a verdict of guilty?" or "Will the price of eggs go up next week?") and each answer which turns out to be correct will yield a prize of $25,000.

"When you ask people to guess the outcome of something that will happen," says emcee-to-be George DeWitt, "there can't possbly be any chance of rigging or coaching or anything of the kind. The show is an open book."

This is not to say that "Prediction" will shun all the other elements of the quiz show of old, the shapely hostess (Robin Bain), the voice of authority (Westbrook Van Voorhis) and the isolation booth, too, except the "Prediction" management calls it "the decision room."

DeWITT SAYS a pilot film will be made next week to iron out kink in the format, and he looks to the assignment for reasons other than the fact that he will have the distinction, or being the first man to bring the quiz show back alive. (A prediction?)

The show will help him forget the trials and tribulations that have attended his participation in "Be Our Guest" since last week.

A difference of opinion with the show producers prompted DeWitt to announce that he would leave the program upon termination of his 13-week contract, but when he reported to the studio the other day he found that the producers had decided to relieve him of the burden of the show "immediately."

"Here I thought I was doing the decent thing, giving the show enough time to find a replacement," remarked DeWitt, "and they do this to me, making me the heavy.

"Well, I'm not a quitter. I hate a quitter. When a fellow quits a show, a lot of people are thrown out of work."

THE NEW CBS ruling limiting TV commercials to two within the framework of a half-hour entertainment program, automatically resolves a good part of Garry Moore's problems at CBS.

Unwilling to cope further with seven interruptions, including the station break, on his hour-long Tuesday night show, Moore had requested CBS (on an "or else" basis) to reduce the number of commercials.

Moore will be permitted to institute the new CBS regulation on commercials next week instead of Sept. 15, when it's scheduled to become effective.

-:-

ONE SHOW out of every five on TV next season will be a Western. . . .

The role the late Leonard Warren was to play in "Music for a Spring Night" (March 30) will be filled by Robert Merrill. . . .

Latest TV suggestion to come from the educators at the University of Michigan is that the medium "relieve the schools by taking over many of the frills and foibles of the curriculum. Courses could be offered on TV," says an article in the Michigan Alumnus Quarterly Review "in such things as safe driving, cooking, sewing, home economics, dancing and other nonacademic subjects."

Underwood Tours California In Quest Of New Industries

DOWNEY, Calif. (AP) — West Virginia Gov. Cecil H. Underwood today continued his tour of California industrial sites in an effort to bring new industries to his state.

The governor's schedule called for visits to the Aerojet - General Corp. aircraft plants at Downey, Covlava and Azusa. Also on his agenda was a luncheon engagement with former Navy Secretary Dan Kimball, president of the Aerojet-General Corp.

The governor will wind up his day-long activities with an evening address at Pasadena to the Aerojet Azuta Management Club on "The Defense Industry of West Virginia."

The governor spoke on the same theme Monday to the Aerojet Sacramento Management Club at Sacramento.

He described West Virginia as an ideal fortress, both militarily and industrially, for the location of defense and related plants.

"The need for invulnerable missile sites as obvious," Underwood said. "However, as important as sheer survival, is the location of defense industries near the military installations which use their products.

Underwood said our great and massive industrial centers stand as natural targets for enemy attack. As a result, they leave our nation exceedingly vulnerable. He called for the dispersal of essential industries.

He said West Virginia has the natural facilities to become a modern fortress — an entire region which offers protection within itself and protection in relation to a major industrial and population area.

Underwood lunched yesterd with Gov. and Mrs. Edmund Brown and former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and his wife in the executive mansion at Sacramento.

Underwood also attended the unveiling of Knight's official portrait to hang in the Capitol gallery for former California governors.

'Prediction' To Bring Back Quiz Format

Ever since the quiz shows went bankrupt, in fortune as well as reputation, a certain TV faction has been trying to stem the tide with what is described as a "rig - proof" quiz show.

Marie Torre

This chaste item is called "P rediction," and it may be relied on to answer, in the coming weeks' whether the quiz show format, fixable or unfixable, can survive the disgrace of a heinous scandal.

It ought to determine, in effect, whether industry surveys accurately estimate the situation when they point to unvarying viewer interest in quizzes—honest quizzes, of course!

AND "PREDICTION," maintain its backers, can't be anything but that!

Property of the Richard Hudnut Co., which plans to sponsor the show on ABC "in about four weeks, the format requires contestants to predict the outcome of a current event (such as, "Will Dr. Finch eventually draw a verdict of guilty?" or "Will the price of eggs go up next week?") and each answer which turns out to be correct will yield a prize of $25,000.

"When you ask people to guess the outcome of something that will happen," says emcee-to-be George DeWitt, "there can't possbly be any chance of rigging or coaching or anything of the kind. The show is an open book."

This is not to say that "Prediction" will shun all the other elements of the quiz show of old, the shapely hostess (Robin Bain), the voice of authority (Westbrook Van Voorhis) and the isolation booth, too, except the "Prediction" management calls it "the decision room."

DeWITT SAYS a pilot film will be made next week to iron out kink in the format, and he looks to the assignment for reasons other than the fact that he will have the distinction, or being the first man to bring the quiz show back alive. (A prediction?)

The show will help him forget the trials and tribulations that have attended his participation in "Be Our Guest" since last week.

A difference of opinion with the show producers prompted DeWitt to announce that he would leave the program upon termination of his 13-week contract, but when he reported to the studio the other day he found that the producers had decided to relieve him of the burden of the show "immediately."

"Here I thought I was doing the decent thing, giving the show enough time to find a replacement," remarked DeWitt, "and they do this to me, making me the heavy.

"Well, I'm not a quitter. I hate a quitter. When a fellow quits a show, a lot of people are thrown out of work."

THE NEW CBS ruling limiting TV commercials to two within the framework of a half-hour entertainment program, automatically resolves a good part of Garry Moore's problems at CBS.

Unwilling to cope further with seven interruptions, including the station break, on his hour-long Tuesday night show, Moore had requested CBS (on an "or else" basis) to reduce the number of commercials.

Moore will be permitted to institute the new CBS regulation on commercials next week instead of Sept. 15, when it's scheduled to become effective.

-:-

ONE SHOW out of every five on TV next season will be a Western. . . .

The role the late Leonard Warren was to play in "Music for a Spring Night" (March 30) will be filled by Robert Merrill. . . .

Latest TV suggestion to come from the educators at the University of Michigan is that the medium "relieve the schools by taking over many of the frills and foibles of the curriculum. Courses could be offered on TV," says an article in the Michigan Alumnus Quarterly Review "in such things as safe driving, cooking, sewing, home economics, dancing and other nonacademic subjects."

United PTA Approves Safety Drive Awards

HANOVERTON — Funds for awards in a safety campaign throughout United Local schools were authorized by the Parent-Teacher Association at a meeting Monday night. About 175 attended.

A display of safety posters of students from the first through eighth grades was set up.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Crouse of North Lima screened pictures of Alaska and showed items of the new state which they visited last summer. Mrs. Willard Cope was program chairman.

Roland Dorr, president, was in charge. The Rev. Alonzo Wise, new minister of the Christian Church, gave the invocation. The next meeting will be April 11.

Underwood Tours California In Quest Of New Industries

DOWNEY, Calif. (AP) — West Virginia Gov. Cecil H. Underwood today continued his tour of California industrial sites in an effort to bring new industries to his state.

The governor's schedule called for visits to the Aerojet - General Corp. aircraft plants at Downey, Covlava and Azusa. Also on his agenda was a luncheon engagement with former Navy Secretary Dan Kimball, president of the Aerojet-General Corp.

The governor will wind up his day-long activities with an evening address at Pasadena to the Aerojet Azuta Management Club on "The Defense Industry of West Virginia."

The governor spoke on the same theme Monday to the Aerojet Sacramento Management Club at Sacramento.

He described West Virginia as an ideal fortress, both militarily and industrially, for the location of defense and related plants.

"The need for invulnerable missile sites as obvious," Underwood said. "However, as important as sheer survival, is the location of defense industries near the military installations which use their products.

Underwood said our great and massive industrial centers stand as natural targets for enemy attack. As a result, they leave our nation exceedingly vulnerable. He called for the dispersal of essential industries.

He said West Virginia has the natural facilities to become a modern fortress — an entire region which offers protection within itself and protection in relation to a major industrial and population area.

Underwood lunched yesterd with Gov. and Mrs. Edmund Brown and former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and his wife in the executive mansion at Sacramento.

Underwood also attended the unveiling of Knight's official portrait to hang in the Capitol gallery for former California governors.

Lisbon To Pay $150 On State Road Project

LISBON — Council agreed Monday evening, under suspension of rules, to pay the state $150 towards the improvement of 0.28 mile of Lincoln Ave. carrying Route 164 from the corporation limits to W. Washington St. The state estimated the entire cost at $1,960.

Harry Stockdale, county sanitarian, discussed state regulations on dumps. Council is working to close the dump within the village limits. Stockdale said he would recommend a land-fill dump for the cheapest and best operation, considering the locality.

Mayor Dean Stockman said village officials and Center Township trustees are in the process of setting up some type of dump for the vicinity outside the village. He also reported that Council feels at present it does not wish to tie the village down to a five-year contract that the B. & W. asked for exclusive garbage and disposal collections.

Assistant Fire Chief W. A. Peters requested purchase of two 1½-inch fog nozzles and a 16-inch ejector fan for the volunteer fire department. Two representatives of two companies quoted prices but Mayor Stockman told the fire committee to study them and report at the next meeting March 28. The prices range from $122.32 to $144 for the nozzles and $134.75 to $184.50 for the fan.

Council also discussed change of parking control to Friday nights instead of Saturday. The changeover will cost $46 for tags for meter plates, plus legal advertising. Council said most of the stores now stay open on Friday nights instead of Saturday, causing parking conjestion and the merchants "themselves park free of charge."

An ordinance naming an alley in the rear of County Jail as Buckey Dr. was given second reading.

Cold and hot patch for village streets was also discussed and Mayor Stockman suggested that the street committee contact Edward Harsh, State Highway Department representative, and John Neill Jr., county highway superintendent, for their recommendations.

Council ordered the Thompson Electric Co. to change all stop lights to 60-cycle range.

Councilman Raymond Dixon reported request for no parking signs placed in front of a home on E. Lincoln Way and on S. Beaver St., just below W. Lincoln way, and complaint of Truck parking on Caldwell Ave.

Dr. Julian Jones was named to the Firemen's Fund Board. Other members are Councilmen Robert Lower and Joseph Dornon and Firemen George Porter and Frank Morlan.

Sam Sowards, a representative of the Central Democratic Club presented a flag for the Council chambers. The flag, secured by Rep. Wayne Hays had been flown over the capital at Washington. The club gave the flag in appreciation for use of the village hall for its meetings.

Taft Group Buys Playground Gym

Plans to purchase a "Jungle Gym" for the playground were made when the Taft Home and School Association met Monday night. About 60 were present.

The program included selections by a clarinet and trombone quartets.

George Hargraves, principal of East Liverpool High School, discussed school levies to be submitted at the May 3 primary. The association donated $25 to a fund for publicizing the issues.

Frank Siddel, president, conducted business. John Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ, talked on "The American Blind Spot" for devotions.

The next meeting will be April 11.

Woman, 54, Killed As Train Rips Auto

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. John Allison, 54, of Hoytville was killed Monday night when a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train sliced into her auto at a grade-crossing in nearby North Baltimore.

Witnesses said flasher lights which protect the crossing were operating when the Washington-bound Capital Limited crushed the auto. The impact hurled the car's engine through a restaurant window across the street.

Food Issuance Begins

LISBON — Only 54 cases representing 232 persons out of 97 certified cases for 372 persons appeared for surplus food when the distribution was made today at the warehouse in Columbiana, Robert Bycroft, county welfare director, said. Food will be issued in other communities the remainder of the week.

Car Occupants Unhurt

No one was reported injured in a two-car collision on Route 164 about 3 miles south of Columbiana this morning, the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said. Details of the crash had not been relayed to the post headquarters by noon.

There are approximately 200 million pounds of honey produced in the U.S. each year.

EX-BOARD MEMBER HONORED. George M. Salsberry, right, former member of the Firemen's Pension Board, was honored by Local 24, International Association of Fire Fighters, at a meeting Monday night at Central Station. Fireman Edwin Greenwood, local president, presented Salsberry with a set of luggage on behalf of the local firemen. Salsberry retired the first of the year after 16 years' service on the pension board. He was succeeded by Atty. George Aronson.

Plans for the annual Wellsville High School Band's Military Ball Friday, March 25, were outlined at a meeting of the Band Mothers Monday night in the high school health room.

The dance will be held in the Beacom Memorial gymnasium for band members and escorts, band alumni and high school students.

The theme will be "Pink Heaven." Joe Commarata and Tessie Comparetta, king and queen of last year's ball, will crown this year's royal couple.

Mrs. Mabel Farance, president, presided.

Board Raises Appropriation At Wellsville

The annual appropriation for 1960 totaling $628,322.04 — up $90,681.78 over 1959—was adopted by the Wellsville Board of Education Monday night.

A salary increase granted instructors and other employes over a month ago and higher operating expenses account for the hike. The 1959 appropriation totaled $537,640.26.

The appropriation allows $437,380 for salaries, making a total of $585,570.74 for operating expenses and $42,751.30 for the bond fund.

A breakdown of the salaries is $18,630, administration; $361,750, instruction; $6,800, co-ordinated activities; $14,300, auxiliary agencies; $25,800, operation of the school plant; $7,000, maintenance, and $3,100, special services.

The breakdown of other operating expenses shows $35,600, supplies; $3,000, material maintenance; $7,800, equipment replacement; $33,800, contract and open order services; $65,107.61, fixed charges and contributions; $2,800, capital outlay, and $83.13, unanticipated emergencies and contingencies.

In other business, the board voted to pay the expenses of Mrs. Ruth Cooper, attendance officer, to a convention March 24-25 at Columbus.

The board also approved a request from John Mackov, MacDonald principal, to allow sixth graders to make a trip to Pittsburgh to visit Buhl Planetarium and the Carnegie Museum. The students will pay their own expenses.

Mrs. Ro-Anne Davis, elementary instructor at MacDonald, was granted a request to cease teaching effective April 8 and was given a year's leave of absence for the 1960-61 term because of pregnancy.

Robert Gilson of Wellsville, a graduate of Wayne College, was named to serve for the remainder of the year.

The board approved the purchase of two duplicators, one for MacDonald and the other for McKinley. They cost $195 each. A $15 tradein will be given by a Steubenville firm for the present machine at McKinley and Mackov said the school will pay $100 on the one for his school.

Supt. S. E. Daw reported 15 are attending the adult night school class in typing being conducted by John Poleski.

The purchase of snare and bass drums for the band at a cost of $386.90 was approved.

Daw reported the walkway in front of Fairview School at Hillcrest is muddy and was directed to purchase slag. Daw turned over $294.59 collected in fees and the sale of supplies to Raymond Rolley, clerk, who reported a bank balance of $47,000.

It was reported spring vacation will begin Friday, April 15, with school resuming Wednesday, April 20. Daw said he will check with the State Education Department to determine whether or not the students will have to make up the two days missed when school was closed because of the heavy snows.

Weirton Reflects Bank Debits Gain

CHARLESTON — West Virginia business, as measured by bank debits, bucked the effects of the steel strike with a 5.1 per cent increase over 1958, the State Chamber of Commerce said today.

The survey showed that 1959 bank debit volume of $9,600,000,000 reported by 95 banks in 42 cities was just 1.4 per cent behind the 1957 record volume of $9,700,000,000.

The greatest gain was recorded in Weirton, where steel mills continued operating during the long strike. Weirton reported a 22.5 per cent increase over 1958, and 20 per cent above 1957.

The coal field city of Welch, despite a coal slump in the last 6 months of 1959, posted a gain of 3.1 per cent in bank debits.

The Chamber said Charleston, Huntington, Parkersburg and South Charleston all reported record highs. Losses were shown by Williamson, Beckley and Bluefield.

Probe Opened On 'Feuding' By Finch Jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Finch case jury room may have been as full as sound and fury as the courtroom, according to reports reaching Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson.

McKesson, prompted by tales told by two jurors, wants to find out just what happened behind the locked door as the jury argued itself into a bitter deadlock.

His office Monday launched an investigation of reports of near-violent feuding and intimidation during the panel's eight days of fruitless deliberations.

McKesson said he was specifically interested in the report that one male juror threatened to throw a woman juror out of a second-story window.

Regardless of what the probe reveals, one thing is certain. It won't affect the outcome of Finch-Tregoff trial No. 1.

The state is now pressing for an immediate second trial for Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his mistress, Carole Tregoff, who are accused of slaying Finch's wife last July 18. A new date will be set Thursday.

Wheeling Meeting To Air A-Plant Waste In River

A public meeting is slated Friday afternoon at Wheeling for a discussion on the disposal of atomic industrial wastes in the Ohio River.

Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr. of the West Virginia 1st District said Dr. Joseph Lieberman, chief of the sanitary engineering branch of the Atomic Energy Commission, and William Hughes, public information officer of the AEC, will take part in the meeting.

Rep. Moore said mayors, councilmen and county officers throughout the Tri-State area are invited to the meeting at which possible contamination of the river from the wastes of the Duquesne Light Co. atomic power plant at Shippingport will be aired.

Representatives of the U. S. Public Health Service, Naval Reactors Operations Office and Ohio River Valley Water Sanitary Commission will be present.

NAACP Finally Given Okay For Sympathy Walk

CLEVELAND (AP) — The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People finally has an okay for a sympathy parade up Euclid Avenue Sunday—only it won't be called a parade.

Student marchers will walk on the sidewalks. City authorities would not give a permit for would-be demonstrators to parade in the streets to show their sympathy for college students involved in "sit-in" demonstrations in the South.

The demonstration is being organized by the NAACP chapter at Western Reserve University.

There has been interest also from Oberlin, Fenn and Baldwin-Wallace colleges and from Case Institute of Technology.

Some 250 to 300 marchers will start at the Mall. NAACP representatives promised there would be only about 10 placards in the parade and that they would say nothing inflammatory.

LISBON — Ten of the 12 adults registered attended the new sewing class Monday night at Lisbon High School, taught by Miss Elizabeth Hineman, home economics teacher.

Lisbon To Pay $150 On State Road Project

LISBON — Council agreed Monday evening, under suspension of rules, to pay the state $150 towards the improvement of 0.28 mile of Lincoln Ave. carrying Route 164 from the corporation limits to W. Washington St. The state estimated the entire cost at $1,960.

Harry Stockdale, county sanitarian, discussed state regulations on dumps. Council is working to close the dump within the village limits. Stockdale said he would recommend a land-fill dump for the cheapest and best operation, considering the locality.

Mayor Dean Stockman said village officials and Center Township trustees are in the process of setting up some type of dump for the vicinity outside the village. He also reported that Council feels at present it does not wish to tie the village down to a five-year contract that the B. & W. asked for exclusive garbage and disposal collections.

Assistant Fire Chief W. A. Peters requested purchase of two 1½-inch fog nozzles and a 16-inch ejector fan for the volunteer fire department. Two representatives of two companies quoted prices but Mayor Stockman told the fire committee to study them and report at the next meeting March 28. The prices range from $122.32 to $144 for the nozzles and $134.75 to $184.50 for the fan.

Council also discussed change of parking control to Friday nights instead of Saturday. The changeover will cost $46 for tags for meter plates, plus legal advertising. Council said most of the stores now stay open on Friday nights instead of Saturday, causing parking conjestion and the merchants "themselves park free of charge."

An ordinance naming an alley in the rear of County Jail as Buckey Dr. was given second reading.

Cold and hot patch for village streets was also discussed and Mayor Stockman suggested that the street committee contact Edward Harsh, State Highway Department representative, and John Neill Jr., county highway superintendent, for their recommendations.

Council ordered the Thompson Electric Co. to change all stop lights to 60-cycle range.

Councilman Raymond Dixon reported request for no parking signs placed in front of a home on E. Lincoln Way and on S. Beaver St., just below W. Lincoln way, and complaint of Truck parking on Caldwell Ave.

Dr. Julian Jones was named to the Firemen's Fund Board. Other members are Councilmen Robert Lower and Joseph Dornon and Fireman George Porter and Frank Morian.

Sam Sowards, a representative of the Central Democratic Club presented a flag for the Council chambers. The flag, secured by Rep. Wayne Hays had been flown over the capital at Washington. The club gave the flag in appreciation for use of the village hall for its meetings.

Taft Group Buys Playground Gym

Plans to purchase a "Jungle Gym" for the playground were made when the Taft Home and School Association met Monday night. About 60 were present.

The program included selections by a clarinet and trombone quartets.

George Hargraves, principal of East Liverpool High School, discussed school levies to be submitted at the May 3 primary. The association donated $25 to a fund for publicizing the issues.

Frank Siddel, president, conducted business. John Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ, talked on "The American Blind Spot" for devotions.

The next meeting will be April 11.

Woman, 54, Killed As Train Rips Auto

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. John Allison, 54, of Hoytville was killed Monday night when a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train sliced into her auto at a grade-crossing in nearby North Baltimore.

Witnesses said flasher lights which protect the crossing were operating when the Washington-bound Capital Limited crushed the auto. The impact hurled the car's engine through a restaurant window across the street.

Food Issuance Begins

LISBON — Only 54 cases representing 232 persons out of 97 certified cases for 372 persons appeared for surplus food when the distribution was made today at the warehouse in Columbiana, Robert Bycroft, county welfare director, said. Food will be issued in other communities the remainder of the week.

Car Occupants Unhurt

No one was reported injured in a two-car collision on Route 164 about 3 miles south of Columbiana this morning, the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said. Details of the crash had not been relayed to the post headquarters by noon.

There are approximately 200 million pounds of honey produced in the U.S. each year.

EX-BOARD MEMBER HONORED. George M. Salsberry, right, former member of the Firemen's Pension Board, was honored by Local 24, International Association of Fire Fighters, at a meeting Monday night at Central Station. Fireman Edwin Greenwood, local president, presented Salsberry with a set of luggage on behalf of the local firemen. Salsberry retired the first of the year after 16 years' service on the pension board. He was succeeded by Atty. George Aronson.

Former Gridder To Be Post Guest

Clark Hinkle of Toronto, former All-American football player, will speak at the Chester American Legion Post 121 anniversary dinner-dance Saturday night at 7.

Plans for the event were completed at a meeting of the post Monday night.

The post will sponsor an entertainment program at the Veterans Hospital at Aspinwall March 22 with M. J. Sweeney in charge. A previous entertainment program was held by the post at the Oakland Veterans Hospital at Pittsburgh.

Wayne Morrow reported on the bowling league, and John Corcoran on social activities. William Martin, commander, presided.

Lunch was served by Corcoran, Tony Amedeo, Jed Spencer, Al West, Karl Sample, Warren Jones and Morrell Yost. The next meeting will be March 28.

Wellsville Mothers Plan Dance For Band

Plans for the annual Wellsville High School Band's Military Ball Friday, March 25, were outlined at a meeting of the Band Mothers Monday night in the high school health room.

The dance will be held in the Beacom Memorial gymnasium for band members and escorts, band alumni and high school students.

The theme will be "Pink Heaven." Joe Commarata and Tessie Comparetta, king and queen of last year's ball, will crown this year's royal couple.

Mrs. Mabel Farance, president, presided.

Board Raises Appropriation At Wellsville

The annual appropriation for 1960 totaling $628,322.04 — up $90,681.78 over 1959—was adopted by the Wellsville Board of Education Monday night.

A salary increase granted instructors and other employes over a month ago and higher operating expenses account for the hike. The 1959 appropriation totaled $537,640.26.

The appropriation allows $437,380 for salaries, making a total of $585,570.74 for operating expenses and $42,751.30 for the bond fund.

A breakdown of the salaries is $18,630, administration; $361,750, instruction; $6,800, co-ordinated activities; $14,300, auxiliary agencies; $25,800, operation of the school plant; $7,000, maintenance, and $3,100, special services.

The breakdown of other operating expenses shows $35,600, supplies; $3,000, material maintenance; $7,800, equipment replacement; $33,800, contract and open order services; $65,107.61, fixed charges and contributions; $2,800, capital outlay, and $83.13, unanticipated emergencies and contingencies.

In other business, the board voted to pay the expenses of Mrs. Ruth Cooper, attendance officer, to a convention March 24-25 at Columbus.

The board also approved a request from John Mackov, MacDonald principal, to allow sixth graders to make a trip to Pittsburgh to visit Buhl Planetarium and the Carnegie Museum. The students will pay their own expenses.

Mrs. Ro-Anne Davis, elementary instructor at MacDonald, was granted a request to cease teaching effective April 8 and was given a year's leave of absence for the 1960-61 term because of pregnancy.

Robert Gilson of Wellsville, a graduate of Wayne College, was named to serve for the remainder of the year.

The board approved the purchase of two duplicators, one for MacDonald and the other for McKinley. They cost $195 each. A $15 tradein will be given by a Steubenville firm for the present machine at McKinley and Mackov said the school will pay $100 on the one for his school.

Supt. S. E. Daw reported 15 are attending the adult night school class in typing being conducted by John Poleski.

The purchase of snare and bass drums for the band at a cost of $386.90 was approved.

Daw reported the walkway in front of Fairview School at Hillcrest is muddy and was directed to purchase slag. Daw turned over $294.59 collected in fees and the sale of supplies to Raymond Rolley, clerk, who reported a bank balance of $47,000.

It was reported spring vacation will begin Friday, April 15, with school resuming Wednesday, April 20. Daw said he will check with the State Education Department to determine whether or not the students will have to make up the two days missed when school was closed because of the heavy snows.

Weirton Reflects Bank Debits Gain

CHARLESTON — West Virginia business, as measured by bank debits, bucked the effects of the steel strike with a 5.1 per cent increase over 1958, the State Chamber of Commerce said today.

The survey showed that 1959 bank debit volume of $9,600,000,000 reported by 95 banks in 42 cities was just 1.4 per cent behind the 1957 record volume of $9,700,000,000.

The greatest gain was recorded in Weirton, where steel mills continued operating during the long strike. Weirton reported a 22.5 per cent increase over 1958, and 20 per cent above 1957.

The coal field city of Welch, despite a coal slump in the last 6 months of 1959, posted a gain of 3.1 per cent in bank debits.

The Chamber said Charleston, Huntington, Parkersburg and South Charleston all reported record highs. Losses were shown by Williamson, Beckley and Bluefield.

Probe Opened On 'Feuding' By Finch Jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Finch case jury room may have been as full as sound and fury as the courtroom, according to reports reaching Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson.

McKesson, prompted by tales told by two jurors, wants to find out just what happened behind the locked door as the jury argued itself into a bitter deadlock.

His office Monday launched an investigation of reports of near-violent feuding and intimidation during the panel's eight days of fruitless deliberations.

McKesson said he was specifically interested in the report that one male juror threatened to throw a woman juror out of a second-story window.

Regardless of what the probe reveals, one thing is certain. It won't affect the outcome of Finch-Tregoff trial No. 1.

The state is now pressing for an immediate second trial for Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his mistress, Carole Tregoff, who are accused of slaying Finch's wife last July 18. A new date will be set Thursday.

Wheeling Meeting To Air A-Plant Waste In River

A public meeting is slated Friday afternoon at Wheeling for a discussion on the disposal of atomic industrial wastes in the Ohio River.

Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr. of the West Virginia 1st District said Dr. Joseph Lieberman, chief of the sanitary engineering branch of the Atomic Energy Commission, and William Hughes, public information officer of the AEC, will take part in the meeting.

Rep. Moore said mayors, councilmen and county officers throughout the Tri-State area are invited to the meeting at which possible contamination of the river from the wastes of the Duquesne Light Co. atomic power plant at Shippingport will be aired.

Representatives of the U. S. Public Health Service, Naval Reactors Operations Office and Ohio River Valley Water Sanitary Commission will be present.

NAACP Finally Given Okay For Sympathy Walk

CLEVELAND (AP) — The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People finally has an okay for a sympathy parade up Euclid Avenue Sunday—only it won't be called a parade.

Student marchers will walk on the sidewalks. City authorities would not give a permit for would-be demonstrators to parade in the streets to show their sympathy for college students involved in "sit-in" demonstrations in the South.

The demonstration is being organized by the NAACP chapter at Western Reserve University.

There has been interest also from Oberlin, Fenn and Baldwin-Wallace colleges and from Case Institute of Technology.

Some 250 to 300 marchers will start at the Mall. NAACP representatives promised there would be only about 10 placards in the parade and that they would say nothing inflammatory.

NIT Play Resumes Tonight With 2 Games In New York

Bradley Five Faces Dayton In Headliner

NEW YORK (AP)—Top-seeded Bradley plays tough Dayton and defending champion St. John's takes on even tougher St. Bonaventure tonight in the last quarter-final competition of the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Bradley (24-2) is a five-point favorite over the Flyers, who easily handled Temple 72-51 in a first-round game. St. Bonaventure (20-3) is given a one-point nod over the Redmen (17-7) after eliminating Holy Cross 94-81 for its 17th consecutive victory in a first-round contest.

Dayton's (21-6) chief worry appears to be Bradley's ever-changing offense and defense.

"We never do the same thing twice," Braves' coach Chuck Orsborn admitted. The Braves, who lost to St. John's, 75-71, in overtime for last year's title, are noted for using two or three types of offense or defense all with variations almost as a matter of course.

Dayton coach Tom Blackburn has high regard for the Braves.

"After all, they've beaten the Big O (Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati, 91-90). In our section of the country, if you've beaten the Big O, you've got it," said Blackburn, who has led the Flyers into five NIT finals and never emerged a winner.

St. John's coach Joe Lapchick is worried mostly about his fourth-seeded team's lack of activity the past 12 days and still is haunted by the 95-78 lacing by the Bonnies in December's Holiday Festival.

Five Ex-Yanks May Start In Kansas Lineup

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The shuttle system operating between Kansas City and New York — for use by baseball players only — may have dropped off five front-liners who'll be in the Athletics' starting lineup when Bob Elliott makes his managerial debut in the majors.

The A's, berated by many for their numerous transactions with New York, could open the 160 campaign with Bob Cerv, Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern in the outfield, Jerry Lumpe at shortstop and Marv Throneberry at first Base.

Elliott also has two starting pitchers—Johnny Kucks and Don Larsen—either of whom might wind up with the opening day mound assignment.

Kucks was the pitching star and Lumpe and Siebern the batting heroes Monday as the A's defeated the Milwaukee Braves 7-5 in an exhibition game.

Kucks pitched three scoreless innings and received credit for the victory when Lumpe and Siebern cracked homers in the third inning for a decisive 4-0 lead.

The American League champion Chicago White Sox and the Baltimore Orioles ran their records to 3-0. The Sox defeated St. Louis 8-4 while the Birds kept Cincinnati winless 9-4.

In other spring tests, Washington whipped Los Angeles 7-4, Detroit beat the Yankees 4-2 and Philadelphia took Pittsburgh 4-1.

Midland Last To Bow Out

Most Of District's Teams Left Tourney Play Early

District basketball teams didn't go too far in tournament play.

Midland was the last to bow out after advancing to the semi-finals of the WPIAL, a spot they have reached on two other occasions.

Midland was bounced out by Uniontown in an overtime battle Saturday.

No other club in the district was able to get out of sectional play and most dropped their tourney openers.

Wellsville made it to the sectional finals after winning two tournament starts, but was sidelined by Steubenville Big Red, which has advanced to regional play at Columbus.

The East Liverpool Potters were among seven district teams which bowed out in their first start. The Potters lost to Big Red.

New Cumberland, Beaver Local, Leetonia, Chester, East Palestine and Lisbon all fell by the wayside on opening night.

Other teams winning one game before bowing out were Midland, Fairfield-Waterford, United, Stanton Local, Newell and Columbiana.

Salem advanced to the sectional finals before being surprised by Warren.

Last season the Quakers gave the district a runnerup to the state title before losing to Cleveland East Tech.

So far as the overall records, Midland was the winningest team with a 23-3 mark for one of the best in the school's history.

Salem was 17-3 for the season and Wellsville 16-5. Stanton Local topped the Class "A" schools by posting a 16-5 record.

Lisbon finished at the bottom among area squads with a 2-16 record.

Beaver Local To Honor Athletes Wednesday

Members of the Beaver Local basketball and wrestling teams will be honored at a banquet Wednesday night at the high school. Mike Koyal, Hiram College coach, will be guest speaker for the event sponsored by the Boosters Club. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Williams are in charge of the coverdish dinner.

Friend Feels Good, All Set For Comeback

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Figure Bob Friend for the comeback of the year in the National League. The big right-hander who lost 19 and won only 8 last season for Pittsburgh thinks he's got a shot at becoming a 20-game winner again with the Pirates.

"Everybody feels good in the spring, but I can't remember ever feeling as good as this," said Friend, who led the league in defeats after sharing the lead in victories with 22 the year before.

"I've got a shot at winning 20—this club is good enough for me to win that many."

The obvious difference so far about Friend is his weight. He reported about 15 or 20 pounds lighter than last spring, when he checked in at 214.

"My best weight is about 190 or 195," he said, "and I had a harder time getting rid of that extra weight last year. I wasn't worried about it at first because I never had trouble losing before, but when I finally did lose it, I lost it too quickly and I was weak. I just didn't have any stuff.

"I guess maybe it's just that I was a year older," said Friend, now 27, "and I have to watch my weight more. That's what I did this winter."

Cabas Finishes Fourth

Dayton Roosevelt Mentor Picked As Coach-Of-Year

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John Woolums of Dayton Roosevelt today was named Ohio's Class AA high school basketball coach of the year in the Associated Press poll of sports writers, officials and cage mentors.

The tutor of the top-ranked, unbeaten Teddies has been coaching for 18 of his 38 years, compiling a 257-89 record.

In 13 years at the Roosevelt helm his 198-72 record has brought him two district and six city championships—the last four in a row. His current squad has won 23 straight and has been topranked all year in the Associated Press poll.

In the state-wide voting, with hundreds participating, Woolums was a standout winner. Ken Kate of unbeaten Canton Timken was second, and Bill Ross of Marietta third.

Next in line were John Cabas of Salem, Bill Kaylor of Xenia Central, Bill Satterlee of Akron South, Sam Marchio of Urbana, George Valentine of Ashland, Doyce Filiere of Pemberville Eastwood, Joe Howell of Cleveland East Tech, Ed DiGregorio of Youngstown East, Bill Arthur of Archbold, and Russell Moore of Pomeroy.

Woolums, who sends his terrific Teddies against Middletown's seven-time state champions Friday in the Cincinnati regional, coached the New Vienna team while a senior at Wilmington College.

He spent two years at Martinsville and two at Lemon-Monroe before going to Dayton. After graduating from Wilmington in 1943, Woolums received his masters degree in education and school administration from Miami in 1952. In between he sandwiched a World War II stint with the Marine Corps. He's a graduate of Belfast, Ohio, High School.

The ratings were based on regular season games, as are the All-Ohio player selections to be announced next week. The All-Ohio teams, at the request of the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn., are made public the week of the state championship tournament.

Others mentioned prominently for the coach of the year award in Class AA were Bobby Carroll of Bridgeport, Dale Reichenbach of Elyria, the 1959 choice; Eugene Degyansky of Lakewood, Andy Kandik of Toledo Scott, Jim Clark of Cincinnati Central, Bucky Walters of Springfield, Harold Andreas of Cuyahoga Falls, and George Heller of Portsmouth.

Dodgers Awed By Hitting Of Frank Howard

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There is a new phenom in the Los Angeles Dodger camp, whistling line drives through the pine trees and stirring up excited comment about a "new Babe Ruth."

Frank Howard is the name. He is the former Ohio State basketball star, a sturdy 6-foot-7 athlete who pocketed $108,000 for signing with Los Angeles in the spring of 1958. After two sensational years in the minors and a brief trial run with the Dodgers last year he is getting the long look.

The consensus among the higher brass seems to be that Howard probably needs another year of seasoning. It all depends on the exhibition games. If he still reminds people of the Babe after spring training is over, he could make the big hop this year.

"I think he can do for baseball what Babe Ruth did as far as drawing power is concerned," said Pete Reiser, new Dodger coach who managed Howard at Green Bay in 1958 and at Victoria, Tex. last year.

"He has as much power, if not more, than anybody I ever saw," said Walter Alston, the Dodger manager.

All the superlatives come from the brass. None from Howard, a polite young man of few words. Howard, 23, is so engrossed with his work that it is difficult to pin him down for even a few words.

The brass decided last year to make over Howard from an outfielder to a first baseman.

He hit .333 at Green Bay in 1958, .356 at Victoria the first half of last season and .319 at Spokane in the Pacific Coast League the last half. In two years in the minors, split among Class B, AA and AAA leagues, he has hit 80 homers and driven in 245 runs.

California Aide Figures Cincy Game As Standoff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rene Herrerias, California's present assistant basketball coach and the head coach-to-be, figures Friday's NCAA semifinal against Cincinnati at just about a standoff.

"We're tougher than we were a year ago," Herrerias declared after scouting Cincinnati in the Midwest regionals, "but Cincinnati is definitely stronger."

The little coach, who moves up to the head job when Pete Newell takes over the Cal athletic directorship, said California, defending NCAA champion, won't have the advantage of surprise as they did last year.

The Bears went into the tournament at Louisville unheralded, stopped Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati 64-58, then beat West Virginia 71-70 for the title.

Friday the two teams meet in the Cow Palace after Ohio State meets New York University.

Herrerias said Robertson, the nation's leading scorer three years in a row, is still the same Big O, but this year he has a stronger supporting cast.

"The big difference," he said, "is Cincinnati's 6-9 sophomore center Paul Hogue. I'm told he was somewhat un-coordinated at the start of the season, but he certainly didn't look it last week.

"He takes a lot of pressure off Robertson. When the defense collapses on Oscar, the Big O passes off to Hogue and he dunks one. Hogue gives Cincinnati the good big man they lacked last year."

Herrerias added that Cincinnati doesn't make many mistakes, that the club is better than last year's defensively and on rebounding.

He expects his Bears to slow up Robertson & Co. (Cal leads the nation in defense), but he quickly noted that the Ohioans can and have mastered the Bear ball control style.

"They can come through," Herrerias said. "Look at their record."

It's 27-1, same as California's.

Ohio State and NYU likewise match identical records—23-3.

And in New York, the Violets' coach had something to say about his next foe too. Lou Rossini commented that OSU's team is big and tough and will wear an opponent to a frazzle physically. But, said Rossini, the Buckeyes have an Achilles heel—impestuousness.

"They're a young bunch and they don't have much patience," the NYU mentor elaborated. "Our only chance of beating them is that they will get fidgety and reckless and make some damaging mistakes."

Aside from that, Rossini was all praise. He said that the scout he dispatched to Louisville to watch the Bucks against Georgia Tech "thought it the best team he had seen all year."

"They're all big strong boys—6-5 and 6-6—who probably have the best over-all team speed in the country," Rossini went on.

"They're an unselfish team — they look around for each other—but they concentrate on Jerry Lucas, their terrific 6-foot-8 All-America. One of their pet plays is to send a high, lobbing pass down to Lucas, who leaps out of a horde of defenders to grab the ball and then stuffs it two-handed into the basket.

"It's not a one-man team. If you concentrate your defense on Lucas, one of the other guys will murder you.

"We won't change our tactics and we have one hope of beating them—that is, we must do everything just right and we must pounce on their mistakes. They are eager, and inclined to get flustered."

Hernandez Fractures Feather Champ's Jaw

CARACAS, Venezuela. (AP) — A little known Venezuelan fighter broke world featherweight champion Davey Moore's jaw and forced the Springfield, Ohio, scrapper to leave the ring in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round nontitle bout Monday night.

Young Carlos Hernandez rocked Moore with a hard right in the third round and sent him down for a six count. Moore clinched and waited for the bell.

It appeared it was the third round blow that fractured Moore's jaw. After the fight, his jaw was placed in a cast.

Moore weighed 127¼, Hernandez, 130.

McMillan Pounds Ball As Reds' Leadoff Batter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Roy McMillan, the skinny Cincinnati shortstop, has a new talent for hitting.

The Reds tried him as leadoff man Monday in an exhibition against Baltimore's American Leaguers. He lashed out a triple, double and single and scored three runs.

"It's a matter of getting more snap into my wrists," he said. "Wally Moses suggested it and I want to tell you it's the first time I received a workable batting tip."

The Orioles, getting 15 hits off hurlers Ted Wieand, Jim Brosnan and Mike Cuellar and benefitting from five Red throw errors, won 9-4.

But McMillan's batting spree perked up his teammates. There has been some question as to whether he's physically fit again.

A second base collision with Billy Bruton of Milwaukee last August cracked McMillan's clavicle, ending his playing for the season.

It cast a shadow on the length of his playing days. Mac wasn't the only one worried when it failed to heal properly and an operation was performed.

"The days I had to wait to test it thoroughly were killing," he said. "The club wouldn't even let me swing a bat or exercise the shoulder until Jan. 15.

"Then I swung a bat, felt no pain, hitch or anything unusual. Then I played three rounds of golf. It felt fine."

Spring training is the big test. Mac said "I didn't have any real fears about it when I shagged grounders, threw the ball and even took my turn in the batting cage.

"But it certainly was more encouraging to find that I can do everything I did in the past."

Wilt Gets Record 53 For Warriors Who Face Boston

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — What a difference a year—and a man—has made in the Philadelphia Warriors. They're heading into the National Basketball Assn.'s Eastern Division final playoffs.

The man is Wilt Chamberlain who set another record Monday night in leading the Warriors to a 132-112 trouncing of the Syracuse Nats in the decisive finale in their three-game preliminary series.

A year ago the Warriors were the Eastern Division doormats and didn't get into the series.

Seven-foot-one Wilt the Stilt hit for 53 points, three more than the old playoff record. It was the ninth record Wilt set in his one-year NBA career. He had 16 points at the quarter and 10 in the second period when the Warriors wrapped up the game by taking a 14-point lead.

The Warriors journey to Boston to play the Eastern Division winners in their best four-of-seven series.

The Boston-Philadelphia winner meets the St. Louis-Minneapolis Western Division victor in the league final.

Horavth Grabs Lead Over Hull In NHL

MONTREAL (AP) — An apparently rejuvenated Bronco Horvath has taken over the scoring leadership from Bobby Hull by one point, National Hockey League statistics showed today.

Boston's Horvath scored four points in three games last week for a season total of 79, while Hull, of Chicago, picked up only one. Both have three games to play.

Horvath has scored 38 goals and assisted on 41 while Hull has 38 goals and 40 assists.

Fay Crocker Wins Titleholders Golf

Crocker may be 45 and have thin blood, but the South American senorita has plenty of staying power on the golf course.

She proved that in the 21st Women's Titleholders when she jumped out front the first day, led all the way and won by seven shots over Kathy Cornelius of Lakeland, Fla.

Par for the 6,300-yard Augusta Country Club course is 36-36—72. Never easy, the hilly layout was tougher than usual this year, after late winter snow and ice storms left the course in less than perfect shape.

Before the tournament started Miss Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, belittled her chances of winning. She said she follows the sun and can't take cold weather.

Piersall Being Quiet

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Outfielder Jim Piersall has been so quiet and industrious during the first two weeks of the Cleveland Indians' training program that people look at his uniform number twice to be sure it's Jim. General Manager Frank Lane wrote the one-time madcap in January that if the club wanted a clown it would try to hire one from the circus. Now Piersall won't even pose for a playful photograph.

Forrest C. (Phog) Allen's college basketball teams won 771 games during his 46 years of coaching.

Barons' Star Nears Hockey Scoring Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Cleveland's Fred Glover has just about wrapped up his second American Hockey League scoring title.

With only two weeks of regular season play left, Glover has 96 points, 13 more than runnerup Bill Sweeney of Springfield, and an increase of nine over last week. Glover has 37 goals and a league-leading 59 assists.

He was the leading scorer in 1956-57, when he had 99 points, his career high. With seven games left, he should surpass that and the club high of 102, set in 1953-54 by Jack Gordon, Cleveland's present coach.

Budweisers Eye ABC; Detroit Pfeiffers Fail

TOLEDO, Ohio. (AP) —Another big-name bowling team, Budweiser Beer of St. Louis, takes to the alleys tonight in the American Bowling Congress tourney which Monday night saw the defending champions fade away.

The Detroit Pfeiffers, who set an all-time record in winning last year's 56th ABC competition with 3243, tallied 2930 pins Monday night on games of 984, 922 and 1024. That effort, led by Capt. Ed Lubanski's 610, gives the Pfeiffers a temporary hold on seventh place in the open team division.

The St. Louis Budweisers were third last year and fourth the year before.

Give Up On Phillies

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—The New Jersey Legislature has given up on the Philadelphia Phillies. The Assembly Monday repealed a 1959 law designed to lure the Phillies to a proposed multimillion-dollar stadium near Garden State Race Track in Camden County.

Brown Sees Morrow Aiding Cleveland Line

CLEVELAND (AP)— Cleveland Browns coach Paul E. Brown thinks John Morrow's speed and versatility will help the Browns' line.

The coach indicated that this is why center Art Hunter was sent to the Los Angeles Rams Monday in a straight trade for Morrow.

The 6-foot-3 Morrow is faster than Hunter and can play either center or guard, Brown said.

Dave Lloyd, formerly of Georgia, is expected to start at center in training camp next summer. If he can handle the job, Morrow might move to guard.

NIT Play Resumes Tonight With 2 Games In New York

Bradley Five Faces Dayton In Headliner

NEW YORK (AP)—Top-seeded Bradley plays tough Dayton and defending champion St. John's takes on even tougher St. Bonaventure tonight in the last quarter-final competition of the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Bradley (24-2) is a five-point favorite over the Flyers, who easily handled Temple 72-51 in a first-round game. St. Bonaventure (20-3) is given a one-point nod over the Redmen (17-7) after eliminating Holy Cross 94-81 for its 17th consecutive victory in a first-round contest.

Dayton's (21-6) chief worry appears to be Bradley's ever-changing offense and defense.

"We never do the same thing twice," Braves' coach Chuck Orsborn admitted. The Braves, who lost to St. John's, 75-71, in overtime for last year's title, are noted for using two or three types of offense or defense all with variations almost as a matter of course.

Dayton coach Tom Blackburn has high regard for the Braves.

"After all, they've beaten the Big O (Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati, 91-80). In our section of the country, if you've beaten the Big O, you've got it," said Blackburn, who has led the Flyers into five NIT finals and never emerged a winner.

St. John's coach Joe Lapchick is worried mostly about his fourth-seeded team's lack of activity the past 12 days and still is haunted by the 98-76 lacing by the Bonnies in December's Holiday Festival.

Friend Feels Good, All Set For Comeback

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Figure Bob Friend for the comeback of the year in the National League. The big right-hander who lost 19 and won only 8 last season for Pittsburgh thinks he's got a shot at becoming a 20-game winner again with the Pirates.

"Everybody feels good in the spring, but I can't remember ever feeling as good as this," said Friend, who led the league in defeats after sharing the lead in victories with 22 the year before.

"I've got a shot at winning 20—this club is good enough for me to win that many."

The obvious difference so far about Friend is his weight. He reported about 15 or 20 pounds lighter than last spring, when he checked in at 214.

"My best weight is about 190 or 195," he said, "and I had a harder time getting rid of that extra weight last year. I wasn't worried about it at first because I never had trouble losing before, but when I finally did lose it, I lost it too quickly and I was weak. I just didn't have any stuff.

"I guess maybe it's just that I was a year older," said Friend, now 27, "and I have to watch my weight more. That's what I did this winter."

Dayton Roosevelt Mentor Picked As Coach-Of-Year

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John Woolums of Dayton Roosevelt today was named Ohio's Class AA high school basketball coach of the year in the Associated Press poll of sports writers, officials and cage mentors.

The tutor of the top-ranked, unbeaten Teddies has been coaching for 18 of his 38 years, compiling a 257-89 record.

In 13 years at the Roosevelt helm his 198-72 record has brought him two district and six city championships—the last four in a row. His current squad has won 23 straight and has been topranked all year in the Associated Press poll.

In the state-wide voting, with hundreds participating, Woolums was a standout winner. Ken Kate of unbeaten Canton Timken was second, and Bill Ross of Marietta third.

Next in line were John Cabas of Salem, Bill Kaylor of Xenia Central, Bill Satterlee of Akron South, Sam Marchio of Urbana, George Valentine of Ashland, Doyce Filiere of Pemberville Eastwood, Joe Howell of Cleveland East Tech, Ed DiGregorio of Youngstown East, Bill Arthur of Archbold, and Russell Moore of Pomeroy.

Woolums, who sends his terrific Teddies against Middletown's seven-time state champions Friday in the Cincinnati regional, coached the New Vienna team while a senior at Wilmington College.

He spent two years at Martinsville and two at Lemon-Monroe before going to Dayton. After graduating from Wilmington in 1943, Woolums received his masters degree in education and school administration from Miami in 1952. In between he sandwiched a World War II stint with the Marine Corps. He's a graduate of Belfast, Ohio, High School.

The ratings were based on regular season games, as are the All-Ohio player selections to be announced next week. The All-Ohio teams, at the request of the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn., are made public the week of the state championship tournament.

Others mentioned prominently for the coach of the year award in Class AA were Bobby Carroll of Bridgeport, Dale Reichenbach of Elyria, the 1959 choice; Eugene Degyansky of Lakewood, Andy Kandik of Toledo Scott, Jim Clark of Cincinnati Central, Bucky Walters of Springfield, Harold Andreas of Cuyahoga Falls, and George Heller of Portsmouth.

Five Ex-Yanks May Start In Kansas Lineup

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The shuttle system operating between Kansas City and New York — for use by baseball players only — may have dropped off five front-liners who'll be in the Athletics' starting lineup when Bob Elliott makes his managerial debut in the majors.

The A's, berated by many for their numerous transactions with New York, could open the 160 campaign with Bob Cerv, Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern in the outfield, Jerry Lumpe at shortstop and Marv Throneberry at first Base.

Elliott also has two starting pitchers—Johnny Kucks and Don Larsen—either of whom might wind up with the opening day mound assignment.

Kucks was the pitching star and Lumpe and Siebern the batting heroes Monday as the A's defeated the Milwaukee Braves 7-5 in an exhibition game.

Kucks pitched three scoreless innings and received credit for the victory when Lumpe and Siebern cracked homers in the third inning for a decisive 4-0 lead.

The American League champion Chicago White Sox and the Baltimore Orioles ran their records to 3-0. The Sox defeated St. Louis 8-4 while the Birds kept Cincinnati winless 9-4.

In other spring tests, Washington whipped Los Angeles 7-4, Detroit beat the Yankees 4-2 and Philadelphia took Pittsburgh 4-1.

Dodgers Awed By Hitting Of Frank Howard

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There is a new phenom in the Los Angeles Dodger camp, whistling line drives through the pine trees and stirring up excited comment about a "new Babe Ruth."

Frank Howard is the name. He is the former Ohio State basketball star, a sturdy 6-foot-7 athlete who pocketed $108,000 for signing with Los Angeles in the spring of 1958. After two sensational years in the minors and a brief trial run with the Dodgers last year he is getting the long look.

The consensus among the higher brass seems to be that Howard probably needs another year of seasoning. It all depends on the exhibition games. If he still reminds people of the Babe after spring training is over, he could make the big hop this year.

"I think he can do for baseball what Babe Ruth did as far as drawing power is concerned," said Pete Reiser, new Dodger coach who managed Howard at Green Bay in 1958 and at Victoria, Tex. last year.

"He has as much power, if not more, than anybody I ever saw," said Walter Alston, the Dodger manager.

All the superlatives come from the brass. None from Howard, a polite young man of few words. Howard, 23, is so engrossed with his work that it is difficult to pin him down for even a few words.

The brass decided last year to make over Howard from an outfielder to a first baseman.

He hit .333 at Green Bay in 1958, .356 at Victoria the first half of last season and .319 at Spokane in the Pacific Coast League the last half. In two years in the minors, split among Class B, AA and AAA leagues, he has hit 80 homers and driven in 245 runs.

Midland Last To Bow Out

Most Of District's Teams Left Tourney Play Early

District basketball teams didn't go too far in tournament play.

Midland was the last to bow out after advancing to the semi-finals of the WPIAL, a spot they have reached on two other occasions.

Midland was bounced out by Uniontown in an overtime battle Saturday.

No other club in the district was able to get out of sectional play and most dropped their tourney openers.

Wellsville made it to the sectional finals after winning two tournament starts, but was sidelined by Steubenville Big Red, which has advanced to regional play at Columbus.

The East Liverpool Potters were among seven district teams which bowed out in their first start. The Potters lost to Big Red.

New Cumberland, Beaver Local, Leetonia, Chester, East Palestine and Lisbon all fell by the wayside on opening night.

Other teams winning one game before bowing out were Midland, Fairfield-Waterford, United, Stanton Local, Newell and Columbiana.

Salem advanced to the sectional finals before being surprised by Warren.

Last season the Quakers gave the district a runnerup to the state title before losing to Cleveland East Tech.

So far as the overall records, Midland was the winningest team with a 23-3 mark for one of the best in the school's history.

Salem was 17-3 for the season and Wellsville 16-5. Stanton Local topped the Class "A" schools by posting a 16-5 record.

Lisbon finished at the bottom among area squads with a 2-16 record.

Beaver Local To Honor Athletes Wednesday

Members of the Beaver Local basketball and wrestling teams will be honored at a banquet Wednesday night at the high school. Mike Koyal, Hiram College coach, will be guest speaker for the event sponsored by the Boosters Club. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Williams are in charge of the coverdish dinner.

Barons' Star Nears Hockey Scoring Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Cleveland's Fred Glover has just about wrapped up his second American Hockey League scoring title.

With only two weeks of regular season play left, Glover has 96 points, 13 more than runnerup Bill Sweeney of Springfield, and an increase of nine over last week. Glover has 37 goals and a league-leading 59 assists.

He was the leading scorer in 1956-57, when he had 99 points, his career high. With seven games left, he should surpass that and the club high of 102, set in 1953-54 by Jack Gordon, Cleveland's present coach.

California Aide Figures Cincy Game As Standoff

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rene Herrerias, California's present assistant basketball coach and the head coach-to-be, figures Friday's NCAA semifinal against Cincinnati at just about a standoff.

"We're tougher than we were a year ago," Herrerias declared after scouting Cincinnati in the Midwest regionals, "but Cincinnati is definitely stronger."

The little coach, who moves up to the head job when Pete Newell takes over the Cal athletic directorship, said California, defending NCAA champion, won't have the advantage of surprise as they did last year.

The Bears went into the tournament at Louisville unheralded, stopped Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati 64-58, then beat West Virginia 71-70 for the title.

Friday the two teams meet in the Cow Palace after Ohio State meets New York University.

Herrerias said Robertson, the nation's leading scorer three years in a row, is still the same Big O, but this year he has a stronger supporting cast.

"The big difference," he said, "is Cincinnati's 6-9 sophomore center Paul Hogue. I'm told he was somewhat un-coordinated at the start of the season, but he certainly didn't look it last week.

"He takes a lot of pressure off Robertson. When the defense collapses on Oscar, the Big O passes off to Hogue and he dunks one. Hogue gives Cincinnati the good big man they lacked last year."

Herrerias added that Cincinnati doesn't make many mistakes, that the club is better than last year's defensively and on rebounding.

He expects his Bears to slow up Robertson & Co. (Cal leads the nation in defense), but he quickly noted that the Ohioans can and have mastered the Bear ball control style.

"They can come through," Herrerias said. "Look at their record."

It's 27-1, same as California's.

Ohio State and NYU likewise match identical records—23-3.

And in New York, the Violets' coach had something to say about his next foe too. Lou Rossini commented that OSU's team is big and tough and will wear an opponent to a frazzle physically. But, said Rossini, the Buckeyes have an Achilles heel—impestuousness.

"They're a young bunch and they don't have much patience," the NYU mentor elaborated. "Our only chance of beating them is that they will get fidgety and reckless and make some damaging mistakes."

Aside from that, Rossini was all praise. He said that the scout he dispatched to Louisville to watch the Bucks against Georgia Tech "thought it the best team he had seen all year."

"They're all big strong boys—6-5 and 6-6—who probably have the best over-all team speed in the country," Rossini went on.

"They're an unselfish team — they look around for each other—but they concentrate on Jerry Lucas, their terrific 6-foot-8 All-America. One of their pet plays is to send a high, lobbing pass down to Lucas, who leaps out of a horde of defenders to grab the ball and then stuffs it two-handed into the basket.

"It's not a one-man team. If you concentrate your defense on Lucas, one of the other guys will murder you.

"We won't change our tactics and we have one hope of beating them—that is, we must do everything just right and we must pounce on their mistakes. They are eager, and inclined to get flustered."

Budweisers Eye ABC; Detroit Pfeiffers Fail

TOLEDO, Ohio. (AP) —Another big-name bowling team, Budweiser Beer of St. Louis, takes to the alleys tonight in the American Bowling Congress tourney which Monday night saw the defending champions fade away.

The Detroit Pfeiffers, who set an all-time record in winning last year's 56th ABC competition with 3243, tallied 2930 pins Monday night on games of 984, 922 and 1024. That effort, led by Capt. Ed Lubanski's 610, gives the Pfeiffers a temporary hold on seventh place in the open team division.

The St. Louis Budweisers were third last year and fourth the year before.

Give Up On Phillies

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—The New Jersey Legislature has given up on the Philadelphia Phillies. The Assembly Monday repealed a 1960 law designed to lure the Phillies to a proposed multimillion-dollar stadium near Garden State Race Track in Camden County.

Brown Sees Morrow Aiding Cleveland Line

CLEVELAND (AP)— Cleveland Browns coach Paul E. Brown thinks John Morrow's speed and versatility will help the Browns' line.

The coach indicated that this is why center Art Hunter was sent to the Los Angeles Rams Monday in a straight trade for Morrow.

The 6-foot-3 Morrow is faster than Hunter and can play either center or guard, Brown said.

Dave Lloyd, formerly of Georgia, is expected to start at center in training camp next summer. If he can handle the job, Morrow might move to guard.

FDA Pushes Drive Against 'Quack' Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Have you ever tried turtle oil to iron out your wrinkles, used royal jelly to cure anything that ails you, or applied an electric shock to mend broken bones?

If you have, you may be among the millions of Americans who shell out close to a billion dollars a year to medical and nutritional quacks.

The Food and Drug Administration is conducting a running war against "literally thousands of medical quacks" and wants Congress to put up more money to finance the fight.

George P. Larrick, head of the agency created to police the food and drug business, recently outlined his problems to a House Appropriations subcommittee which published his testimony today.

Larrick brought along some samples to back up his case. They included a "hagi pipe" and a plastic bag into which a person suffering from muscle cramps sticks his head.

The "hagi pipe," made in Japan at a cost of 6 cents, was offered for sale at $2.40. Made of bamboo with a mouthpiece on one end, it carried this claim: "Gospel to all smokers, hagi pipe to prevent lung cancer from smoking."

The directions for the plastic bag, which sold for a dollar, told the user to "stick your head down in the bag and exhale into it, and then breathe back your own breath." After doing that five times, the cramps were supposed to disappear.

Another form of "medical hocus - pocus" is long - distance diagnosis and treatment of ailments. The patient sends in a drop of blood on a blotter and gets a reply telling him what to do. One skeptical person sent in the blood from a rooster. The long-distance diagnosis was that the patient had "malaria and gonorrhea."

Patient Squirts Deodorant, Gets New TV Program

BAY SHORE, N.Y. (AP)—When hospital patient Edward McBride wants to switch television programs, he can press his remote control gadget—or squeeze a can of air deodorant. Either one does the job.

McBride was perfectly happy with the show on his remote control TV set Monday. He just wanted to freshen up his hospital room a bit. So he squirted the air deodorant can. Presto, a new TV channel flicked on.

With each squirt, he found, a new channel popped up. The can worked on ten other TV sets in the hospital and failed on five. Other push-button cans did nothing except what they were supposed to do.

A TV specialist explained that through some fluke the deodorant can had created an ultra-high frequency sound wave that triggered the channel-changing mechanism in the sets.

Sen. Young's Daughter Bares Annoying Calls

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Robert R. Richardson, who had a job briefly last fall taking telephone calls for her father, U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young (D-Ohio), says she quit the job because she was getting annoying calls late at night. The telephone at Mrs. Richardson's home in Shaker Heights was listed in the senator's name as well as the Richardson name.

Mrs. Richardson's name appeared in the list of employes issued quarterly by the Senate, but she said she quit after only about two months. Mrs. Richardson said she did some clerical work also and was paid $112.91.

Warren Youth Killed As Car Strikes Bridge

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—John Richard Rudin, 20, of Warren, was killed early today when his automobile crashed into a bridge abutment on the Ohio Turnpike about six miles west of here.

Herman Skaggs, 20, of Rt. 1, Marengo, Ohio, a hitchhiker in Rudin's car, was taken to the hospital for X-ray examination. Attendants said he apparently was not hurt seriously.

Scarred Woman Displays Wounds In 'Torch' Trial

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—A burn-scarred woman of 28, out of the hospital for the first time in eight months, watches from a wheel chair at the trial of her husband, accused of turning her into a human torch.

Mrs. Helen Khan testified for the prosecution when the trial opened Monday with a jury of six men and six women. She rolled up her hospital gown sleeves and opened the neck of her blouse to show some of the burn scars which cover 60 per cent of her body.

She described how on last July 25 at her home a mile south of Kent she ran from a backyard chicken coop, her clothing aflame, to the basement and used wet clothing in the laundry to put out the fire. She sobbed as she related how her four-year-old son, Feroun, was screaming, "Mommy, Mommy," when he saw her afire.

Isaac Mahammed Khan, 32, chemist and a native of the Fiji Islands, was arrested by the FBI in Chicago last November, and it was believed Feroun may be with Khan's relatives in that city.

If convicted on the assault with intent to kill charge, Khan is liable to a 1-to-15-year prison sentence. He pleaded innocent Nov. 9 and has been free on $10,000 bail.

Ham Radio Operator Bares Sub Distress Call

CINCINNATI (AP)—A hoax or a real distress call?

Charles Gilliam, a ham radio operator here, says the call sounded genuine enough.

He picked up the "Mayday" Monday night from a source that reported it was the submarine USS Dolphin and had just nudged an iceberg in the North Atlantic.

But the Navy in Washington said it had no reports of a sub in trouble and the old Dolphin, launched back in 1932, saw World War II service but is no longer in commission.

Gilliam said he talked for two hours with the craft which gave a position of 60 degrees north, 35 degrees west, or between Greenland and Iceland.

The operator said the sub, commanded by a Capt. John Stevenson, lost power after the iceberg hit, but regained use of engines and was headed toward Iceland.

Man Faces Theft Count Because He Married

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Kenneth Beaver faces petty theft charges because he got married.

Beaver, a 35-year-old painter, married his housekeeper, Nancy Rebholz, whom he had hired to look after a teen-age daughter by his divorced wife.

As long as he was not married he could draw funds for a housekeeper from the San Mateo County Welfare Department. But he failed to notify the department of his marriage and it now charges his collection of $557 since then constitutes petty theft.

Waives Extradition

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—James C. Evans, 25, of Hamilton, Ohio, has waived extradition on a first-degree murder charge and will be returned to Warren County, Ohio, to stand trial. He is accused of the fatal shooting of his uncle, Allen Noe, 27, of Mason, Ohio, as the latter sat in a parked auto near Lebanon, Ohio, March 6. Evans was arrested here.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Rewarding Tantrums Creates Trouble

Normal infants display some rage. So do toddlers and older children. When the rage is prolonged and violent, parents call it a tantrum.

By Garry Meyer.

Even the newborn baby may evince anger, if you straighten his legs at the knees or hamper the movement of his head by holding it between your palms. As he grows older, he may cry with anger from being cramped while you bathe or dress him. Before he is many weeks or months of age he may grow angry if not taken up after prolonged crying.

Of course, it may be relatively easy to prevent rage in the infant if you anticipate his wants and satisfy them promptly; if you take him up or feed him when he begins to cry and go on giving him what he wants right when he wants it. The trouble is that the longer he gets what he wants the more he wants and the more he demands.

COMES A time when you are sure he should not have everything he wants, that he should not be picked up or fed every time he cries. Then, as he cries longer without having his wishes satisfied, he grows angry, and the longer he cries the angrier he gets. He may scream, kick, strike, have a violent tantrum.

He might even pass out for a few moments. Then you will be frightened, especially on the first occurrence. You may suppose it's a convulsion. You should consult your physican in order to know what to do next time.

He probably will tell you that when the youngster loses his breath in a rage he will soon find it again; that a convulsion occurs independent of apparent cause for anger. However, for your peace of mind it might be well to have your physician check and advise you whether it's safe to let the infant or young child "cry it out".

ALSO, IF you let him cry it out in bed, you should be within hearing distance to make sure he does not, in his struggling, suffocate in the bed-clothes.

Most tantrums arise and grow because the baby learns that, if a little crying doesn't win his way, longer and more violent crying—a real tantrum — will.

So if you are going to take him up or let him have his way eventually, why not now, right away? The more violent his rage before winning, the greater his eventual reward when he finally wins. Perhaps the best way to foster tantrums is to change No to Yes, in word or action.

Add finely diced cucumber to creamstyle cottage cheese and serve on slices of tomato for a lunchtime salad.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Dieters Should Not Feel Sorry For Selves

What is the most important ingredient in the recipe for successfull slimming? In a word — enthusiasm. Friends, with enthusiasm you can do anything!

By Ida Jean Kain

How do you get enthusiastic about a diet? By thinking of diet in terms of rewards — not deprivation. When you view calorie subtraction as a means of freeing yourself from the burden of fat, you're on the inside track. Get over the notion that calorie counting restricts you in any way. By using the calorie yardstick you know just where you stand.

Your attitude determines your reaction to a problem and for this reason governs your actions. So let's apply winning psychology to reducing ...

TAKING OFF THE excess poundage will be the greatest favor you can do yourself. Calorie subtraction is the means by which you lighten the load. When you reach for a forbidden food, nip that calorie temptation fast by thinking, "Eating that fattener would be no favor to myself!" Refuse to feel sorry for yourself — that's the winning secret!

The following letter illustrates the rewards of a change in attitude. An Ohioan writes:

"I used to be a nervous, compulsive overeater. Changing my attude has changed me into a thoughtful, discriminating dieter. Formerly any petty frustration, worry, or indecision would drive me to a consoling snack.

"I ate with a feeling of defiance. But once I entertained the idea that curbing calories was the greatest favor I could possibly do myself ... I no longer felt sorry for myself. This change in attitude made all the difference. Since then I have lost 22 pounds on your scientific diet plan. I feel confident I can reach my goal which is another 20 pounds off."

Good! Confidence is cumulative ... so keep this winning attitude. Here is a morale booster on the calorie score. A Down Easterner writes ...

"Your calorie chart and Hunger Control Diet were most helpful to me during the past three months.

"Under the doctor's supervision, using your charts, I have reduced from 162½ to 134 pounds. I consider that it was a painless process.

—:—

"I FOUND COUNTING calories and planning meals carried me over the critical first two weeks—it occupied my mind too much to let me think about eating what I shouldn't. After two weeks my appetite was under control."

Think of the rewards of reducing, get a friendly feeling toward calorie calculations, and slimming down can be an exciting venture.

FDA Pushes Drive Against 'Quack' Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Have you ever tried turtle oil to iron out your wrinkles, used royal jelly to cure anything that ails you, or applied an electric shock to mend broken bones?

If you have, you may be among the millions of Americans who shell out close to a billion dollars a year to medical and nutritional quacks.

The Food and Drug Administration is conducting a running war against "literally thousands of medical quacks" and wants Congress to put up more money to finance the fight.

George P. Larrick, head of the agency created to police the food and drug business, recently outlined his problems to a House Appropriations subcommittee which published his testimony today.

Larrick brought along some samples to back up his case. They included a "hagi pipe" and a plastic bag into which a person suffering from muscle cramps sticks his head.

The "hagi pipe," made in Japan at a cost of 6 cents, was offered for sale at $2.40. Made of bamboo with a mouthpiece on one end, it carried this claim: "Gospel to all smokers, hagi pipe to prevent lung cancer from smoking."

The directions for the plastic bag, which sold for a dollar, told the user to "stick your head down in the bag and exhale into it, and then breathe back your own breath." After doing that five times, the cramps were supposed to disappear.

Another form of "medical hocus - pocus" is long - distance diagnosis and treatment of ailments. The patient sends in a drop of blood on a blotter and gets a reply telling him what to do. One skeptical person sent in the blood from a rooster. The long-distance diagnosis was that the patient had "malaria and gonorrhea."

Patient Squirts Deodorant, Gets New TV Program

BAY SHORE, N.Y. (AP)—When hospital patient Edward McBride wants to switch television programs, he can press his remote control gadget—or squeeze a can of air deodorant. Either one does the job.

McBride was perfectly happy with the show on his remote control TV set Monday. He just wanted to freshen up his hospital room a bit. So he squirted the air deodorant can. Presto, a new TV channel flicked on.

With each squirt, he found, a new channel popped up. The can worked on ten other TV sets in the hospital and failed on five. Other push-button cans did nothing except what they were supposed to do.

A TV specialist explained that through some fluke the deodorant can had created an ultra-high frequency sound wave that triggered the channel-changing mechanism in the sets.

Firemen's Auxiliary Holds Public Card Party

A public card party, sponsored by the Ohio Township volunteer fire department auxiliary, was held Friday night in the fire hall. Mrs. Martin Richards, chairman of the ways and means committee, was in charge.

Prizes were awarded Mrs. Joseph Pakavich and Mrs. Joyce Migliore, Barbara Keser won the prize in pinochle and prizes in 500 were awarded to Mrs. Rachel Shepherd, Mrs. Wilbert Wolfe, Mrs. Kieth Hammond, Mr. Andy Johnson, Mrs. Jim Johnson, Mrs. Migliore, Hazel Griffith, Mrs. Anna Richards, Edna Onuska, Mrs. Pakavich, Mrs. Jason Hoyt, Mrs. Carl Popp, Mrs. Andy Johnson and Mrs. Earl Carroll.

Refreshments were served by the hostess committee.

Sen. Young's Daughter Bares Annoying Calls

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Robert R. Richardson, who had a job briefly last fall taking telephone calls for her father, U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young (D-Ohio), says she quit the job because she was getting annoying calls late at night. The telephone at Mrs. Richardson's home in Shaker Heights was listed in the senator's name as well as the Richardson name.

Mrs. Richardson's name appeared in the list of employes issued quarterly by the Senate, but she said she quit after only about two months. Mrs. Richardson said she did some clerical work also and was paid $112.91.

Warren Youth Killed As Car Strikes Bridge

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—John Richard Rudin, 20, of Warren, was killed early today when his automobile crashed into a bridge abutment on the Ohio Turnpike about six miles west of here.

Herman Skaggs, 20, of Rt. 1, Marengo, Ohio, a hitchhiker in Rudin's car, was taken to the hospital for X-ray examination. Attendants said he apparently was not hurt seriously.

Scarred Woman Displays Wounds In 'Torch' Trial

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—A burn-scarred woman of 26, out of the hospital for the first time in eight months, watches from a wheel chair at the trial of her husband, accused of turning her into a human torch.

Mrs. Helen Khan testified for the prosecution when the trial opened Monday with a jury of six men and six women. She rolled up her hospital gown sleeves and opened the neck of her blouse to show some of the burn scars which cover 60 per cent of her body.

She described how on last July 25 at her home a mile south of Kent she ran from a backyard chicken coop, her clothing aflame, to the basement and used wet clothing in the laundry to put out the fire. She sobbed as she related how her four-year-old son, Feroun, was screaming, "Mommy, Mommy," when he saw her afire.

Isaac Mahammed Khan, 32, chemist and a native of the Fiji Islands, was arrested by the FBI in Chicago last November, and it was believed Feroun may be with Khan's relatives in that city.

If convicted on the assault with intent to kill charge, Khan is liable to a 1-to-15-year prison sentence. He pleaded innocent Nov. 9 and has been free on $10,000 bail.

Ham Radio Operator Bares Sub Distress Call

CINCINNATI (AP)—A hoax or a real distress call?

Charles Gilliam, a ham radio operator here, says the call sounded genuine enough.

He picked up the "Mayday" Monday night from a source that reported it was the submarine USS Dolphin and had just nudged an iceberg in the North Atlantic.

But the Navy in Washington said it had no reports of a sub in trouble and the old Dolphin, launched back in 1932, saw World War II service but is no longer in commission.

Gilliam said he talked for two hours with the craft which gave a position of 60 degrees north, 35 degrees west, or between Greenland and Iceland.

The operator said the sub, commanded by a Capt. John Stevenson, lost power after the iceberg hit, but regained use of engines and was headed toward Iceland.

Man Faces Theft Count Because He Married

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Kenneth Beaver faces petty theft charges because he got married.

Beaver, a 35-year-old painter, married his housekeeper, Nancy Rebholz, whom he had hired to look after a teen-age daughter by his divorced wife.

As long as he was not married he could draw funds for a housekeeper from the San Mateo County Welfare Department. But he failed to notify the department of his marriage and it now charges his collection of $557 since then constitutes petty theft.

Waives Extradition

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—James C. Evans, 25, of Hamilton, Ohio, has waived extradition on a first-degree murder charge and will be returned to Warren County, Ohio, to stand trial. He is accused of the fatal shooting of his uncle, Allen Noe, 27, of Mason, Ohio, as the latter sat in a parked auto near Lebanon, Ohio, March 6. Evans was arrested here.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Rewarding Tantrums Creates Trouble

Normal infants display some rage. So do toddlers and older children. When the rage is prolonged and violent, parents call it a tantrum.

By Garry Meyer.

Even the newborn baby may evince anger, if you straighten his legs at the knees or hamper the movement of his head by holding it between your palms. As he grows older, he may cry with anger from being cramped while you bathe or dress him. Before he is many weeks or months of age he may grow angry if not taken up after prolonged crying.

Of course, it may be relatively easy to prevent rage in the infant if you anticipate his wants and satisfy them promptly; if you take him up or feed him when he begins to cry and go on giving him what he wants right when he wants it. The trouble is that the longer he gets what he wants the more he wants and the more he demands.

COMES A time when you are sure he should not have everything he wants, that he should not be picked up or fed every time he cries. Then, as he cries longer without having his wishes satisfied, he grows angry, and the longer he cries the angrier he gets. He may scream, kick, strike, have a violent tantrum.

He might even pass out for a few moments. Then you will be frightened, especially on the first occurrence. You may suppose it's a convulsion. You should consult your physican in order to know what to do next time.

He probably will tell you that when the youngster loses his breath in a rage he will soon find it again; that a convulsion occurs independent of apparent cause for anger. However, for your peace of mind it might be well to have your physician check and advise you whether it's safe to let the infant or young child "cry it out".

ALSO, IF you let him cry it out in bed, you should be within hearing distance to make sure he does not, in his struggling, suffocate in the bed-clothes.

Most tantrums arise and grow because the baby learns that, if a little crying doesn't win his way, longer and more violent crying—a real tantrum — will.

So if you are going to take him up or let him have his way eventually, why not now, right away? The more violent his rage before winning, the greater his eventual reward when he finally wins. Perhaps the best way to foster tantrums is to change No to Yes, in word or action.

Add finely diced cucumber to creamstyle cottage cheese and serve on slices of tomato for a lunchtime salad.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Dieters Should Not Feel Sorry For Selves

What is the most important ingredient in the recipe for successfull slimming? In a word — enthusiasm. Friends, with enthusiasm you can do anything!

By Ida Jean Kain

How do you get enthusiastic about a diet? By thinking of diet in terms of rewards — not deprivation. When you view calorie subtraction as a means of freeing yourself from the burden of fat, you're on the inside track. Get over the notion that calorie counting restricts you in any way. By using the calorie yardstick you know just where you stand.

Your attitude determines your reaction to a problem and for this reason governs your actions. So let's apply winning psychology to reducing ...

TAKING OFF THE excess poundage will be the greatest favor you can do yourself. Calorie subtraction is the means by which you lighten the load. When you reach for a forbidden food, nip that calorie temptation fast by thinking, "Eating that fattener would be no favor to myself!" Refuse to feel sorry for yourself — that's the winning secret!

The following letter illustrates the rewards of a change in attitude. An Ohioan writes:

"I used to be a nervous, compulsive overeater. Changing my attude has changed me into a thoughtful, discriminating dieter. Formerly any petty frustration, worry, or indecision would drive me to a consoling snack.

"I ate with a feeling of defiance. But once I entertained the idea that curbing calories was the greatest favor I could possibly do myself ... I no longer felt sorry for myself. This change in attitude made all the difference. Since then I have lost 22 pounds on your scientific diet plan. I feel confident I can reach my goal which is another 20 pounds off."

Good! Confidence is cumulative ... so keep this winning attitude. Here is a morale booster on the calorie score. A Down Easterner writes ...

"Your calorie chart and Hunger Control Diet were most helpful to me during the past three months.

"Under the doctor's supervision, using your charts, I have reduced from 162½ to 134 pounds. I consider that it was a painless process.

—:—

"I FOUND COUNTING calories and planning meals carried me over the critical first two weeks—it occupied my mind too much to let me think about eating what I shouldn't. After two weeks my appetite was under control."

Think of the rewards of reducing, get a friendly feeling toward calorie calculations, and slimming down can be an exciting venture.

Bond Set At $2,500 Each In Burglary Case

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Two men pleaded innocent to a burglary charge in County Court Monday night and bond for each was set at $2,500 pending a hearing March 19.

The defendants, Paul Mowery, 31, of Niles, and Edward W. Vesey, 21, of McDonald, were accused of breaking into the Jackson-Milton branch of the Mahoning National Bank and attempting to steal a safe last Thursday.

German Cargo Plane Missing With 7 Aboard

MILAN, Italy (AP)—A German cargo plane with seven persons aboard was missing today on a flight from Germany to the French Mediterranean coast. Ships along the coast were alerted, and planes began searching north of Pisa as well as along the Riviera.

It could not be learned immediately if military or civilian personnel were aboard. The plane was bound for Marseille and Nice.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of David Lloyd Rowley, who left us 8 years ago today, March 15, 1960:
He went through the gate at the end of the road,
That we each must go through alone,
And who he met on the other side, only to God is known.
We like to think that He met Him there and smiled and said "hello."
Then took him into His gentle care, free from all pain and woe.
We miss him each day of the years as they pass,
We'll miss him in every other 'till we too reach the end, at last,
And can once more be together.
(Peggy Wilson)
Sadly missed by his Mother Ethel Rowley, his brothers and sisters and all who loved him.

Bond Set At $2,500 Each In Burglary Case

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Two men pleaded innocent to a burglary charge in County Court Monday night and bond for each was set at $2,500 pending a hearing March 19.

The defendants, Paul Mowery, 31, of Niles, and Edward W. Vesey, 21, of McDonald, were accused of breaking into the Jackson-Milton branch of the Mahoning National Bank and attempting to steal a safe last Thursday.

German Cargo Plane Missing With 7 Aboard

MILAN, Italy (AP)—A German cargo plane with seven persons aboard was missing today on a flight from Germany to the French Mediterranean coast. Ships along the coast were alerted, and planes began searching north of Pisa as well as along the Riviera.

It could not be learned immediately if military or civilian personnel were aboard. The plane was bound for Marseille and Nice.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

8 IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of David Lloyd Rowley, who left us 8 years ago today, March 15, 1960:
He went through the gate at the end of the road,
That we each must go through alone,
And who he met on the other side, only to God is known.
We like to think that He met Him there and smiled and said "hello."
Then took him into His gentle care, free from all pain and woe.
We miss him each day of the years as they pass,
We'll miss him in every other 'till we too reach the end, at last,
And can once more be together.
(Peggy Wilson)
Sadly missed by his Mother Ethel Rowley, his brothers and sisters and all who loved him.

DOWNTOWN LOCATIONS

If a convenient close to town location is what you're looking for don't overlook this 2½ bedroom, 2 story home at 710 Morton street. Contrary to most downtown locations it has a large yard, a nice basement, with a finished knotty pine room, 2 large bedrooms—1 is divided to make a possible 3rd bedroom, and the home has a good modern kitchen and gas heat. Priced at $8000.00

Another convenient spot is 1122 St. Clair Ave. This GOOD 2 story home is located on a large lot with a separate garage, a fairly modern kitchen, and a gas furnace. The home has only 2 bed rooms, but all 5 rooms and bath are large. Price $9000.00

Unprecedented Move In Ohio

5 School Areas Rejected On Bond Issue Voting Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—In an unprecedented move, the State Board of Education has turned thumbs down on the request of five school districts to submit bond issues to a public vote.

The move Monday was seen as an effort by the board to force the districts to consolidate.

In each case, the board held that the district's student enrollment is too small and that consolidation with another district is desirable.

The five districts sought bond issues to finance additional school construction.

The board's reasoning in turning them down was two-fold:

1. Bond issues would put the districts further into debt. Such debt would make it less likely that other districts would want to consolidate with them.

2. To construct school facilities at the present locations might not be feasible if, under consolidation, a school might need to be located elsewhere.

The five districts, and the amount of the bond issues they sought to put to a popular vote:

Southwest Local, Mercer County, $544,000; Old Fort Local, Seneca County, $315,000; Fort Loramie Local, Shelby County $335,000; Southeastern Local, Clark County, $595,000; and Townsend Local, Sandusky County, $145,000.

This is the first time the board has turned down school district requests to submit bond issues to a vote. The board acted under a law passed by the last Legislature.

The law makes board consent necessary before a school district can submit to a popular vote a bond issuue amounting to between 6 and 9 per cent of the district's total property valuation.

Under Ohio law, a district is forbidden to go into indebtedness by more than 9 per cent of its property valuation.

The board, however, approved proposals by 14 school districts to put bond issues up for a vote.

The districts, their counties, and the amount of the bond issues:

Sheffield Lake, Lorain County, $352,000; Brunswick Local, Medina, $955,000; Clearview Local, Lorain, $250,000; Germantown Local, Montgomery, $400,000; Parma City, Cuyahoga, $3,000,000; Reynoldsburg Local, Franklin, $420,000; Circleville City, Pickaway, $1,475,500; Madison Local, Butler, $258,000; Greenville City, Darke, $1,695,000; Elm Valley Local, Delaware, $577,000; Tallmadge City, Summit, $540,000; Madison Local, Lake, $570,000; Greeneview Local, Greene, $960,000; and Dover City, Tuscarawas. $1,876,400.

The board also served notice of intent to revoke five high school charters as of June 30.

Four of the five are located in Champaign County: Christiansburg-Jackson Local, Salem Local, Urbana Local and Harrison-Adams Local (Rosewood). The fifth school, which has held a temporary charter, is Marengo in Morrow County.

In each case, the board said minimum school standards have not been met.

The school districts involved may request a hearing before the board takes final action.

Among other actions, the board:

Granted charters to four high schools. One, Maplewood in Trumbull County, is in a newly consolidated district. The other three merely changed their organizational status.

Disapproved the transfer of school territory from Howland Local District to Warren City District.

Approved school construction contracts for Symmes Valley Local District, Lawrence County ($600,667), and Western Local District, Pike County ($412,001).

Declared its intention to approve transfer of three lots from Miami-Trace Local District to Washington Court House City District.

Approved payment of $6,751 by Warren City District to Warren Local District, and payment of $234 by Marion City District to Claridon Local District, as compensation for annexed territory.

Reported that almost 16 million dollars has been committed of the 20 millions the Legislature appropriated for school building aid in the 1957-59 and 1959-61 bienniums. School districts have matched that committal with 13.7 million dollars in their own funds.

Gas System Will Use U.S. 'Compact' Autos

NEW YORK — The Columbia Gas System plans to acquire 800 U.S. compact cars and thereby save $340,000 in flee acquisition and operation costs in the next four years.

George S. Young, president, announced here today that Columbia Gas will begin moving U.S.-made compact cars into the system's motor vehicle fleets immediately. The Ohio Valley Gas Co. is part of the Columbia Gas System.

Young added, that under the plan it will require four years for the 800 compact cars to be integrated into the system's fleets.

The combined savings in initial acquisition costs and gasoline consumption will approximate $340,000 for the four-year period, Young said. After the fourth year, when the compact cars will be fully integrated into the fleets, annual savings should approximate $125,000, he added.

"We have a responsibility to the public to provide the best possible natural gas service at the least possible cost to our customers. That's why we always are seeking cost-cutting procedures and devices. The U.S. compact autos fit our operating philosophy."

Firemen At Midland Set Banquet April 30

Midland volunteer fire company No. 1 Monday night set the annual banquet April 30 when 3 past presidents will be honored.

Alfred Monaco, Anthony Monaco and Ollie Hamel will be presented rings. Members, wives and guests will attend. A place for the dinner will be announced later.

Lt. Daniel Orlando gave a talk on Civil Defense and said more interest and action are needed by firemen and residents.

Bud Cook, president, appointed Hamel chaplain. Purchases were authorized for a new refrigerator for firemen's quarters, a firemen's flag, an American flag, and some Civil Defense equipment. Next meeting will be April 11.

East End Post Lists Membership Of 591

James Cregar, first vice commander, reported a membership of 591 when American Legion Post 374 met Monday night in the East End home. Twenty-five attended.

Plans were discussed to make a special effort for the Cancer Fund campaign this year in memory of the late Chuck Stull, a past commander who died of the disease in 1955. Robert Poynter was named chairman.

Three new members were accepted. The next meeting is March 21 at 8 p. m. Allen Goodman, commander, will preside.

Calcutta Firemen Practice On Pump

Nineteen attended a meeting of Calcutta volunteer firemen Monday night in the fire station for brief business conducted by Norman Neal, president.

A one-hour demonstration of operating a pump on the fire truck was presented by Chief Laverne Seckman.

The department will host the Tri-State Firemen's Association Friday night, Neal reported. Firemen are receiving orders for sale of Easter candy and proceeds will be used toward a down payment on a new fire truck.

Six dozen wooden folding chairs and six folding tables have been ordered. Girl Scouts will sponsor a public spaghetti supper Thursday night in the fire hall.

Firemen are working on installing interior trim and painting the new building. Three new fluorescent lights have been ordered. Firemen will sponsor a round and square dance Saturday night.

Nomination of officers will be held at the next Monday night's meeting.

Emcee Picked For Quartets' 'Parade' Here

Ed Duplaga of Akron, Johnny Appleseed District president, will be master of ceremonies for the annual "parade" of barbershop quartets Saturday night, March 26, at Westgate Auditorium.

Duplaga's selection was announced by Bob Blatchford, program chairman, at a meeting of the Barbershop Quartet Society Monday night at Carpenters Hall. Duplaga has acted as master of ceremonies at many barbershoppers' shows, including the district contest in Toledo in October when the Colonials Quartet of East Liverpool won the district championship.

The Colonials is comprised of Bill and Charles Brooks, Dale Keddie and Jim Raffle. Other local quartets slated to appear in the "parade" are the Welcomaires, comprised of Glenn Hart, Howard Claypool, Blatchford and Richard E. Smith, and the Barber Curls of the Sweet Adelines society, comprised of Joan Vannoy, Ginger Hile, Jan Dietz and Juanita Garner.

Because of the unusually large demand for tickets, the Barbershoppers will present two complete shows at the "parade" — at 7 and 9:30 p. m. Harold Putt and Wilbur Newman, co-chairmen of the ticket committee, reported that the advance sale for the show at 7 "is progressing satisfactorily."

They distributed tickets to the members and announced that tickets also may be obtained at four district agencies: Robins & Sant Men's Store and Putt Furniture in East Liverpool; Morgan's Drugstore in Lisbon and Al's Mainway Market at Salineville.

Bill Brooks, director, drilled the chorus for its part in the "parade."

2nd Trial Begins In Damage Action

LISBON — Testimony continued today in Common Pleas Court in the second trial of a $50,000 personal injury suit stemming from an auto-truck accident, June 25, 1956, on Route 30, at the former Buckeye Coal Co. Tipple south of Lisbon.

Kenneth Wilson of Warren was awarded damages in the first trial but the Buckeye Mining Co. appealed and the case was returned to Common Pleas Court on a technicality.

Wilson claims he was injured in a collision with a Buckeye truck driven by Jack S. Watson, 26, of Lisbon R. D. 3, at Applegate Rd. near the former tipple.

The trial began Monday before Judge Raymond S. Buzzard. The jury includes Helen Ward, Stella Paisley and Margaret Althar of East Liverpool; Helen Achelson, Margaret Potts and Frank Tolson of Salem; Angela Chickoris of Salineville, Dorothy Coseno, Jean Carney and Anna Laughner of Leetonia, Ruth Beki of Kensington and Shirly Thompson of Hanoverton. Dixie McGaffick of Salem is alternate.

The record low temperature in the United States was measured at Rogers Pass, Mont., Jan. 20, 1954. It was -69.7 degrees.

1,345 Attend Area Girl Scout Events To Climax Anniversary

Approximately 1,345 Girl Scouts and guests attended observances climaxing the week's celebration of the 48th anniversary Saturday and Sunday in the local neighborhood areas.

Stressing the theme "Arts of Homemaking," open house was held Saturday afternoon at the LaCroft School for the Pleasant Heights Neighborhood group, at the Emmanuel Presbyterian Church for the North Side area, and East Junior High School, for the combined Downtown and East End Neighborhood groups.

The event for the Calcutta group was held Sunday afternoon at the Calcutta School and at the same time for the Chester area at the Westminister Presbyterian Church.

Among the LaCroft displays were a quilt made by Intermediate Troop 74, which is working on seamstress and wild flower badge, and demonstrations of huck-weaving by Troop 72. Colorful jewelry made from nut shells was exhibited by Brownie Troop 66.

A puppet show highlighted the homemaking displays of Intermediate Troop 51 at Chester.

At the East End open house, Intermediate Troop 36 had a food exhibit, a part of its work towards the cooking badge. Troop 12 had various sewing projects.

Brownie Troops 3, 44 and 57 completed a table setting in a yellow and brown motif, using a centerpiece of chrysanthemums and favors which the scouts made. A painting of Cathy Tost of Intermediate Troop 23 was displayed.

Troop 7 of the North Side area had a craft exhibit. Among the displays in sewing was a dress made by Chris Porter. Scouts of Troop 13 featured a variety of house plants for its exhibit.

Calcutta troops presented a program of singing and dancing and a panel discussion. A handcraft display showed projects completed during the year.

Or other things, like you, your wife and up to seven kids (not necessarily all of them yours, because you'll be pestered for rides by every kid in the block). And that's the size of it. Only 72 cu. ft. of room.

Valiant's inclined engine doesn't run on diesel fuel, either. Just plain old regular gasoline—and not very much of it. Another thing. Valiant has a rattle-proofed, rust-proofed unitized body—pound for pound, as tough as you can get. But to say that Valiant's a heavyweight would be stretching your imagination just a bit.

On the other hand, you must admit that Valiant does have advantages. It fits lots easier into your garage and into small parking spaces. Plus, it almost runs on carfare. And it looks quite a bit better standing in your driveway—and every other place, too.

But you decide. We think we know which you'll pick, once you see your nearest Valiant dealer (you'll find his name and address at the bottom of this ad). On the other hand, you must admit that Valiant does have advantages. It fits lots easier into your garage and into small parking spaces. Plus, it almost runs on carfare. And it looks quite a bit better standing in your driveway—and every other place, too.

But you decide. We think we know which you'll pick, once you see your nearest Valiant dealer (you'll find his name and address at the bottom of this ad). And by the way—if you want to call Valiant "our family bus", it won't mind a bit. And we won't, either. Because you'll call it that with lots of respect—and even more affection.
